FIND GARMENTS IN HUNT FOR CORBETT GIRL

Northampton, Dec. 1.—A piece of woman's lingerie and a brown silk stocking, the latter matching one found yesterday were found floating in the Connecticut River today at Hampden bridge in the search for Alice M. Corbett. Another note purporting to come from the missing Smith College junior was received, but is believed to be a hoax. The note was found by a Westfield farmer, enclosed in a cigarette box, bound in white paper and a ribbon. The note was on pink paper.

MORGAN BACK, SILENT AS USUAL

New York, Dec. 1 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan arrived on the Majestic today after having spent more than two months in England. He followed his usual rule of making no statement about anything.

BREMER LEFT $725,000 ESTATE

The estate owned by S. Parker Bremer, Boston merchant and Manchester resident, who disappeared at sea Nov. 25 when returning from Bermuda, was estimated at $125,000 in real estate and $600,000 in personal property in his will filed today at Salem.

"MA" GOES HOME FOR REST AND HEALTH

Austin, Tex., Dec. 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Miriam F. Ferguson left Austin today on a north-bound train, presumably going to her old home at Temple. Her husband, James E. Ferguson, said that his wife's health was not so good and that she needed rest from constant annoyance.

$3,000,000 STORM LOSS IN FLORIDA; 5 KILLED

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 1 (A.P.).—Five lives were lost, property damage is estimated at more than $3,000,000 and one of the worst tie-ups in wire communication ever known on the Florida east coast was caused by high winds and driving rains in the last 24 hours.

The wind reached hurricane proportions and the rain was so heavy at some places as in Miami, where 14.1 inches fell, that the streets were standing in water and the people donned bathing suits.

Four persons were killed near Tampa, where a house on Davis Island collapsed and 16 persons were injured. Public utilities were suspended and wire communication except that of the railroads was lost south of Tampa.

Fire broke out in the Latin section of Tampa and the large plant of the West Coast Fertilizer Company was destroyed. Fifteen freight cars near the plant were burned.

Damage was said to be heavy along the waterfronts to light pavilions and bathing houses at a number of resorts, and it was feared that ships in the path of the winds might suffer. Few reports came, however, of actual damage.

'RED' GRANGE TO PLAY GAME IN HUB DEC. 9

Harold "Red" Grange, football's most discussed individual, will make his Boston debut at Braves Field, Wednesday afternoon, December 9, in a professional football game between his Chicago Bears and the Providence Steamrollers.

C. C. Pyle, Grange's manager, today reached an agreement by telegraph with the management of the Providence team and contracts are being forwarded at once.

An immediate effort to obtain the Allston ballyard for that afternoon was made by the Providence team.

10-TON GIRDERS FALL 70 FEET, HIT 4, KILL 1

Providence, Dec. 1. — George Hughes, 33, was killed and three other workmen were injured today when ten tons of steel girders, being hoisted at the new Auditorium on North Main street, fell 65 feet.

Had not Arthur J. Bishop, engineer, of the donkey engine, seen the girders slip several others would have been hit. He swung the load to one side before the crash.

MATTAPAN CALLS ON POLICE TO 'GET BUSY'

Stirred to anger by the number of burglaries in their neighborhood and incensed over the inactivity of police assigned to protect the district, nearly 100 Mattapan men and women have demanded in a signed petition that Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson afford them better protection.

One hundred signatures, the spoken word for better protection by the people themselves, and an explanatory letter outlining the specific cause for the "round robin" complaint, were delivered to the police commissioner's office direct.

Commissioner Wilson, handicapped by an insufficient number of policemen, and 40 men short of the alotted personnel, has responded to the emergency.

He has ordered a specially trained

SHIP'S CREW TRAPPED IN HOLD IN EXPLOSION AT BRAINTREE DOCK

One man was burned so badly that he may die, one man is missing and three others suffered burns today in an explosion, followed by fire, on the oil tanker Phoenix at the Cities Refining Company dock in East Braintree.

The dying man at the Quincy City Hospitol, is Captain Bent Larsen, of the tanker.

The men were trapped in the hold of the tanker as it was unloading oil, and only at the risk of their lives did rescuers drag them from the flaming pit.

A pump was being lowered into the tanker from the dock when the blowup that shook buildings in the vicinity, came, and flames shot high above the hull with the force of the explosion.

The plant, situated opposite the Fore River shipyards, was immediately endangered and the 200 employes ran madly from the flame area.

Fire apparatus was summoned and, when Boston was asked for aid, the new Hub Foamite engine, used in extinguishing oil fires, was rushed to the scene and damped out the flames.

Fast work by the firemen from surrounding cities and towns saved the huge refining company plant, but the Boston rescue squad found it had no work to do, as Captain Larsen and the other men who had been at work—with the exception of the missing man—had all been pulled out of the flames.

HEART OF BROCKTON IMPERILLED BY FIRE

Brockton, Dec. 1.—The muffled roar of an explosion and flames leaping through windows broken by the blast were the first warnings of a fire in the Eagle Block at No. 26 Ward street today, which for a time threatened to wipe out the whole business section of Brockton.

Before the flames could be checked by firemen, summoned by a general alarm, they had spread to an adjoining building. Chief Daley estimated the property damage at $100,000.

Only the coincidence that Frank Connell, a baker, happened to be passing prevented the flames getting a serious handicap.

He was walking along Ward street on his way home after work when he heard the roar from the Eagle Block and then turned to see the flames shooting from the windows of H. L. Newton's sign-painting establishment and the Liberty printing shop.

He sounded an alarm and Chief Daley immediately ordered a general alarm.

The fire gave the firemen a stubborn battle, and twice it seemed that the progress of the flames could not be stayed. Residents of the section packed their household goods in preparation for flight.

The Eagle Block, a three-story brick structure, was all but destroyed. On the street floor was the Brockton agency of the Boston Evening American, G. F. Reed's furniture moving office, the Liberty Printing Company, and Newton's paint shop. On the second floor was the lodge room of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which organization owned the building. On the top floor was a public hall in which dances and boxing bouts were held.

In the wooden building adjoining most of the damage was done by water.

SON TRIES TO PUNCH HIS FATHER IN COURT

A twenty-year-old son, loyal in the support of his mother, leaped to his feet during her testimony of non-support in Cambridge court today and threw the court into an uproar when he aimed a punch at the father, Charles Burgess.

The latter was appearing on the non-support charge before Judge Flynn. Mrs. Burgess had just declared he had not supported her for twenty-seven years when the son, James, acted.

Lashing out with his fists, he attempted to beat the father, but court officers dragged him back.

Judge Flynn ordered the son released and continued the case until next May 27, ordering the husband to pay his wife $8 a week in the interim.

TELLS DEATH STORY FOR LAST TIME

Olympia Macri, the girl who killed her sheik lover because he would not help support the baby he fathered, took the witness stand today in what is believed to be the closing chapter of the trial. The courtroom was cleared of all spectators during her testimony.

CROWD PUT OUT WHEN OLYMPIA TELLS STORY

Litchfield, Conn., Dec. 1.—Olympia Macri, on trial for the killing of her sheik lover, John Bagnano, in New Haven last February, was put on the stand today, in what was intended to be the last chapter of the defense. At the request of her counsel, the room was cleared of all spectators. The girl was overcome at first, but soon was able to be questioned.

The girl testified that she met Bagnano at her father's home on Christmas Eve, 1923, and that when he tried to "make a date" she told him she was "too young to go out

KIP'S FRIENDS SCORED AS 'SOCIAL CLIMBERS IN CHOP SUEY CLOTHES'

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander was "slow at spelling" but "fast at making love," declared Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Kip's dusky bride, Alice, in his closing argument to the jury today at the Rhinelander annulment trial.

The attorney lashed the youth as "Mr. Innocence Abroad," and charged the entire proceedings were being forced by some "powerful hand" for the sole sake of "upholding the pride of the Rhinelanders."

He declared Kip was always able to "meet the girls" and always made himself "the life of the party" when he did. He ridiculed Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rich, friends of Kip, who testi-

GERMANY AND FOES SIGN PEACE PACT

London, Dec. 1 (A.P.)—Germany and her principal antagonists in the World War today signed the Locarno Treaty and collateral pacts guaranteeing peace in Europe and the submission to arbitration of any disputes that may arise between them regarding their frontiers.

The ceremony, which lasted only an hour, was notable for extreme simplicity.

Immediately the delegates had taken their places at the large table in the order in which they sat at Locarno, Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, without rising and in an address of welcome in French, in the name of the King, told of the gratification felt over their presence at the ceremony.

Chancellor Luther expressed his country's pleasure at the conclusion of the pact. After him came the remaining delegates, voicing similar sentiments.

Dr. Stresemann delivered his remarks with vigor and apparent conviction, the only delegate to raise his voice above conversational tones. He repeatedly struck the table as he made his declarations.

Nothing, he said, would serve greater purpose in these days of difficulty than the spirit of good will which the treaty evoked.

Premier Briand of France in a solemn voice avowed that there was not a person in the world who was not interested in the proceedings of the day.

"I can see across the table the German chancellor," he said, "and I am sure I can tell him that I have remained a good Frenchman, just as he in coming here, has remained a good German—but both of us are Europeans."

squad of investigators, all plain clothes men, into the Mattapan territory. With them, he has sent automobiles, motorcycles, and firm orders to patrol the terror-stricken areas indefinitely.

Tenement dwellers and business men, objects for attack by denizens of the underworld, have suffered especially by the announced and unannounced success of "flat workers," holdup men, sneak thieves and other thugs. Property losses have mounted into thousands in dollars.

Commissioner Wilson and Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley are fully aware that the city is without sufficient policing personnel. Boston, they have said, is desperately in want of more policemen, requiring at least 300 more men.

Further, declares the Police Commissioner, men already enlisted in the department must instantly mature into full-fledged policemen. The superintendent, only last week in his "wake-up" order to the department, issued a preliminary warning.

"Merchants and home dwellers," the commissioner added, "are entitled to 100 per cent. protection from crime and they are going to get it from the men now on the force.

"The men in the ranks today depleted as is the department, must get on their toes. I positively will not countenance shirking."

About 400 men have either been weeded out, or punished, since the new department was organized. Six hundred, possibly more, have applied at the State House to be accepted into the service."

The commissioner was asked, in view of the number of men recently punished through dismissal and otherwise, if it is true that he is conducting a "weeding out" process.

"No," he answered indignantly, "I'm not doing the weeding out. They, the men themselves, are doing their own weeding.

Sleeping on the job, drinking and shirking of duty are things that I won't put up with. The offenders, when adjudged guilty by the usual tribunal, shall be thoroughly punished when they come before me.

"The troublemakers appear in the majority to be men who drifted in when a job was open for them and who really are not satisfied with their places. They were accepted in an emergency; no one actually knew them, and they are gradually being found out."

Commissioner Wilson spoke of the arrival of a new civil service commission list, and of his intention to make five sergeants very soon. He was asked whether raising the pay of superior officers had been considered, and replied in the negative.

"OLIVE BRANCH" FOR SON OF LA FOLLETTE

Washington, Dec. 1 (I.N.S.).—The olive branch is to be extended by the Republican regulars in the Senate to Senator "Bob" La Follette of Wisconsin and Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota, two Republicans who have been heretofore considered tarred with the brush of insurgency.

It was announced today that both young Senators will be "invited" to identify themselves with the regular Republican organization of the Senate, and if they accept they will be given the usual committee assignments.

SERGE, CALLED BOGUS PRINCE, CRIES 'PLOT'

Son-in-Law of Selfridge "Repudiated" by Family in London

London, Dec. 1 (A.P.).—A society sensation has been precipitated through publication in the Morning Post of an announcement reading:

"Members of the Wiasemsky family have asked the Morning Post to state that a Russian who appeared in London during 1924 calling himself Serge, Prince Wiasemsky has no legal right to that title and name."

Serge, Prince Wiasemsky, is the son-in-law of Gordon Selfridge, American owner of London's largest department store.

The prince this afternoon issued a statement declaring the announcement in the Post was "political intrigue," and asserting that he had the fullest right to the title of Prince Wiasemsky.

'NIECE' FIGHTS FOR ESTATE OF LOTTA

The famous Lotta Crabtree will case was revived today, when the Supreme Court heard Mrs. Carlotta Crabtree Cockburn's plea to have a jury determine the question of her relationship to the famous actress.

Mrs. Cockburn claims to be the daughter of "Jack" Crabtree, Lotta's brother. Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for Mrs. Cockburn, outlined the proceedings in Probate Court and said if the will should be disallowed, the contest would be between Mrs. Cockburn and six first cousins. He asked why proponents of the existing will should oppose a decision by a jury on the alleged relationship.

Attorney Whipple told of Jack Crabtree wandering through the Western States in the early 80's, of living with a woman generally recognized as his wife in Tombstone, Ariz., and all records of marriage and birth of a daughter being destroyed in the San Francisco fire.

Whipple said his client is the daughter born of this union, and he added that after her birth Crabtree abandoned baby and mother, leaving them destitute. The attorney said that Thomas Bullock, who had been Jack Crabtree's partner in a stock venture, looked after the child and afterward legally adopted her.

The aged Lotta left a fortune estimated at several million dollars, the first cousins being beneficiaries of various sums, but the greater part of the fortune being bequeathed to charity, veterans of the World War of Massachusetts, New York State and California.

SHIP ARRIVALS INCREASE DURING NOVEMBER

Ship arrivals for the month of November showed an increase, though there was a slight falling off in the number of passengers landed from foreign shores as compared with the same month a year ago. There were 119 steamers, 15 schooners and one barge as against 113 steamers and 9 schooners last year, an increase of 14 vessels. From transatlantic ports there came 961 passengers, 1,884 from Canada and Nova Scotia and eight from the West Indies as against 1,360 from Europe, 1,781 from Canada and Nova Scotia and 19 from the West Indies last year. There was a considerable increase in the amount of customs collections, exceeding even the banner year, 1923.

TEST CASE IN SALE OF RUBBING ALCOHOL

Sale of alcohol in drugstores in the form of rubbing preparations was attacked in the Municipal Court today by Police Captain George W. Patterson in a test case brought against a clerk in a downtown store.

The test case was decided upon when the spokesmen for the concern asserted that the alcohol was sold in good faith as a preparation for external use only.

The police allege that seven different clerks in seven downtown stores sold the preparation to members of Captain Patterson's liquor squad.

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN now has "K. G." after his name, something possessed by few Englishmen outside of royalty.

The magic letters "K. G." mean "Knight of the Garter." Once a lady dropped her garter on the ballroom floor. The British king picked it up, and remarked, "Honi soit qui mal y pense!" That means, "Shame to him who evil thinks."

Much delighted with his thought, the king established the Order of the Garter, made to look like a garter, with those six French words on it.

TO KNOW HOW the world has changed, ask yourself what the United States would think, if a lady dropped one of her silk underthings at an inauguration ball, and a President picked it up, returned it to her, and permitted members of the Cabinet to wear an imitation of it, as a great honor?

SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRIES are "exporting power." A good export that takes nothing from the soil. You simply sell to another country the power of the sun, lifting water from the ocean to drop it in rain, to cause waterfalls and create power.

The Scandinavians run a cable under the water, ship and sell power to Denmark.

THERE'S A HINT for New England, especially for Maine, which intelligently plans to harness the great tides in the Bay of Fundy. The Maine export about which we know most is seed potatoes—excellent potatoes. This writer has bought many a carload.

The "power crop" of Maine should bring to the State millions of dollars every month, without the inconvenience of fighting potato bugs.

with fellows." They did meet, however, and she told of various occasions when they were together.

"He was always good to me—ht was a good fellow," Olympia said, when Attorney Koletsky asked her if he had ever treated her in a disdespectful manner.

"I told him I didn't love him," she testified.

Johnny told her: "Keep company with me and you'll get used to me," she said.

Johnny's mother came to her one day, she said, and pleaded with her to marry her son, because "he was sick and going crazy because I wouldn't marry him."

Mrs. Marguerite Di Cenzo, midwife, testified earlier in the day that Olympia came to her house on the night of August 27, 1923, with her mother and another girl. Olympia was about to become a mother and the mid-wife advised that she be taken to the hospital. They took Olympia away after they learned her condition, and the midwife said she notified a policeman.

BENTON PASSES ON NIGHT CLUBS

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton today refused to give Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook an opinion on the constitutionality of a proposed law permitting police to enter night clubs without warrants.

"Your request is not accompanied by a copy or draft of the proposed bill," declared the attorney-general. "While the Legislature, or either house thereof, or a committee of either house, or the Governor, may properly inquire whether a proposed bill, if enacted, would be constitutional, the attorney-general does not advise departments, officers, boards or commissions upon constitutional questions unless such advice is clearly required to enable them to discharge the duties required of them by law.

"This principle is applicable to the present case and I therefore feel [illegible] not to attempt to advise you whether a bill which has [illegible] drawn would be beyond the power of the General Court."

POLICE TELL OF MAKING SURPRISE VISIT

Chauffeur Then Testifies to Taking Pair to Hotel in Wife's Suit

A police sergeant and a special officer who went calling informally on Richard F. Long, son of the Framingham manufacturer, a bit after midnight, testified against him today in Suffolk Probate Court, where Mrs. Long, the wife, seeks separate maintenance.

It was an informal and also an embarrassing call, the police averred, for the younger Long was clad only in pajamas and a bathrobe, while a Miss Alice Collins also had on a robe de nuit, as the police say.

The raid was conducted in an apartment house in Reedsdale street, Allston, according to Sergeant Patrick J. Mahoney and Special Officer Willard of the Brighton station, and they were forced to wait some time before Long opened the door.

WIFE IDENTIFIES WRITING.

Long questioned the policemen closely on the stand, as he did all witnesses, but they held straight to the course during the cross-examination, changing nothing.

Two hotel clerks, Edward F. Sweet of a Worcester hostelry, and Charles F. Warner of the Copley Square Hotel, produced registers of their respective houses, containing entries identified by Mrs. Long as being in her husband's handwriting.

Then a former chauffeur, named Jeffry, testified to having driven Long and Miss Collins to the Copley Square on two occasions and calling for them some time later.

GIRL PAID RENT.

In cross-examination, Long sought an admission from the chauffeur that he was employed by the elder Long's company, but the chauffeur

'MA' IS IN TROUBLE

Mrs. Marian Amanda Ferguson, "Ma," taking the oath of office as Governor of Texas, the first woman in America to hold the office. Chief Justice Cureton is administering the oath. Immediately behind "Ma" is Lee Satterwhite, Speaker of the House who now threatens to impeach her.

Governor "Ma" immediately busies herself with the new, and to her strange, duties of her office, making a study of the affairs of State and with numerous official papers. She is shown here in her office at the Capitol in Austin.

Her enemies charge that "Pa" Ferguson, impeached while Governor of Texas in 1916, makes her sign "on the dotted line." He is waiting for what she is signing.

Will "Ma" shed "mantle of State" and go back to dusting?

COUPLE LEAVE FRIENDS "WAITING AT CHURCH"

Charles R. Gavin of Leominster and the new Mrs. Gavin gave a new twist to the famous old "waiting at the church" song. They left a few score of friends waiting at the church in Leominster while they came to Boston to be married.

Everybody in Leominster knows Charley Gavin and pretty Mrs. Gavin, who was Evelyn Balcom. Everybody knew that they had taken out marriage intention papers, that Judge Robbins had waived the five-day law, and that Rev. Arthur R. Whitney of the Leominster Unitarian Church was to marry them.

So everybody naturally concluded that the ceremony would be at the church and everybody was there. But the contracting parties and the clergyman came down to Boston and the ceremony was celebrated in the minister's parental home.

Moosehead Lake In Ice Grip

Bangor, Me., Dec. 1 (A.P.).—Moosehead Lake froze over solidly last night and today is closed to navigation, according to word received at the Bangor and Aroostook railroad offices here.

'PA' FERGUSON PRESS AGENT FOR 'MA'

Austin, Tex., Dec. 1 (A.P.)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has made no formal announcement on the matter of calling a special session of the Texas Legislature, as demanded by a number of the lower house, her husband James E. Ferguson, said today.

It was reported yesterday that she had made an informal statement that she would not call a session.

"Now get this straight," Ferguson said. "Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has not made any formal statement as to whether or not she would call a special session."

Almost fifty members of the House have served notice on the Governor that a special session would be called by Speaker Satterwhite unless she issued the call by December 16.

The demand for the session grows out of alleged irregularities in the Highway Commission, which resulted in the resignations of two highway commissioners and a $500,000 judgment against the American Road Company, which held large contracts.

GIRL'S BLUFF SCARES THUG

The quick wit of Miss Nora Flaherty, No. 37 Linden Place, Brookline, foiled an armed thug today in the Fenway, bent on robbing her companion, William H. Hill, No. 7 Pond street, Jamaica Plain, at Riverway and Brookline avenue.

The automobile in which she and Hill were riding met with a mishap and as Hill got out to fix it a youth drove up alongside in a sedan, volunteered to help Hill, but in another instant ordered him to "throw 'em up."

Hill complied and the bandit started to go through his pockets.

"You'd better leave that man alone," Miss Flaherty cried out, "there's a policeman across the street."

There was no policeman in sight.

FINANCE BOARD OPPOSES STATE FIRE INSURANCE

Insurance of State property, advocated by many persons because of fire losses during the year, was frowned upon today by the Commission of Administration and Finance in its recommendations to the legislature.

The commission pointed out that the premiums on the millions of property owned by the State would be so large as to make the plan uneconomical. A more practical plan, according to the commission, would be to increase the Governor's contingency fund from $100,000 to $150,000, balances to be diverted to a sinking fund to take care of future fire losses.

REID IN ROW AT TRIAL OF MITCHELL

Washington, Dec. 1 (A.P.)—Counsel for Colonel William Mitchell failed today in a spectacular attempt to unseat another member of the Mitchell court-martial—Major General William S. Graves.

After a consultation in secret the Court overruled defense charges that General Graves had interfered with the cross-examination of prosecution witnesses and had displayed bias.

The decision followed another fiery altercation in open court, arising from a comment made in an undertone by General Graves regarding the method of the defense attorney, Representative Reid of Illinois, in his questioning of witnesses.

When today's flare-up occurred, Captain H. E. Yarnell of the Navy was being cross-examined by Reid about the Hawaiian flight, and Major Allen Gullion, assistant trial judge advocate, had complained to the court of Reid's "insulting treatment" of witnesses. The defence counsel had unnecessarily inquired into the private affairs of Captain Yarnell, said Major Gullion.

ADMIRAL APOLOGIZED.

"Are you a good example of a non-flying officer who commands flying units?" Reid asked the witness.

Captain Yarnell answered that he did not consider himself competent to express an opinion in reply to such a question, and his reply was followed immediately by the argument between Reid and General Graves.

Yarnell, commander of the aircraft squadron of the scouting fleet, and commander of the aircraft forces defending Hawaii in the recent maneuvers, testified that a remark by the late Rear Admiral George M. Williams, that he distrusted the judgment of aviators was intended as a joke. He added, however, that what the admiral really said was that he "distrusted the judgment of anybody who was in aviation."

Admiral Williams later apologized for his remarks, Yarnell said.

PRAISED AIR FORCE.

Captain Yarnell disagreed with Lieutenant Sheridan also on the question of the part played by the naval aircraft in the defense of Hawaii, declaring the army and navy defending forces were [illegible] an entity. He produced a letter written by Major Gerald C. Brant, of the general staff, who commanded the defense land forces, which said the co-operation and coordination between the navy and army aircraft "was as perfect as was possible."

Major Brant, who was a defense witness before the court, wrote Captain Yarnell that the "success which marked the operations of the air defense "might not work out so well in war." He added in the same communication that the strength of the army's air defense was inadequate.

KILLED CHUM 'BECAUSE OF NOTION'

JUST FELT IN MOOD TO SLAY

New York, Dec. 1 (I.N.S.)—Gordon Pirie, twenty, walked into a police station today and confessed that had killed his chum, George Nye, nineteen, with an axe "because he got the notion."

Police had been searching for Pirie since yesterday when his sixteen-year-old sister, Margaret, was startled into hysterics by discovery of Nye's body under her bed.

After striking his victim six times, Pirie told District Attorney John E.

IF KIP WAS 'SLOW IN SPELLING' HE WAS 'FAST IN MAKING LOVE'

WIFE'S COUNSEL SAYS YOUNG RHINELANDER WAS ALWAYS 'THE LIFE OF HIS PARTIES'

fied against Alice as social climbers who tried to break into the Rhinelander set through "a chop suey joint."

"Mrs. Rich dolled up in her chop suey clothes to crash into society," he said, "but she was crashed out again—through a trap door!"

He bitterly [illegible] Kip for the way he had won the love of his dusky bride and then suddenly cast her aside "with the last shred of [illegible] from her name."

Attorney Davis was to be followed by Judge Isaac N. Mills, counsel for Kip. It was doubted if the court would make its final charge today. The indication was that the case would not reach the hands of the jury until tomorrow.

In summing up his argument Attorney Davis said:

"No one has the right to hide behind the smoke screen of a long family lineage.

"Judge Mills will tell you that Rhinelander's brother was killed in the war. Now that is a fine thing for the Rhinelanders, but what has that got to do with this case?

"Lots of young men died in the war, but don't let him play upon your sympathies. These two young people can never live together. They can never live together, not after this young man, through his counsel, has torn the last shred of reputation from her—from Alice.

"She is a housemaid, a servant, the daughter of servants, derived of an humble and poor parentage. He is the product of an old family. He is descended of the Huguenots, a line 200 years old. He is educated, cultured and has traveled the world over.

"Gentlemen, these facts make up for the difference in age between these young people."

He sought to show by these arguments that Alice could not have led Leonard into their relationship against his wishes.

Alice, her mother and father sat dry eyed, seemingly unmoved by Davis' eloquent and appealing talk.

Mr. Davis reviewed the testimony covering the plaintiff's bill of particulars. He recalled that Leonard admitted five errors in it, and that he signed it at Jacobs' orders, and really did not understand what was in it.

Then he went into the specific charges in Rhinelander's complaint and turned suddenly toward ex-Judge Isaac N. Mills, lawyer for Rhinelander, and, pointing his finger at him, shouted:

"You, sir, must prove your charges as you have made them!"

"Huh," grunted Mills.

"Why the huh?"

"Oh, it was involuntary," answered Mills.

Charges Kip Tore 'Last Shred of Wife's Honor'

THESE two young people can never live together again. They can never live together, not after this young man, through his counsel, has torn the last shred of reputation from her—from Alice.

"She is a housemaid, a servant, the daughter of servants, derived of an humble and poor parentage. He is the product of an old family. He is descended of the Huguenots, a line 200 years old. He is educated, cultured and has traveled the world over.

"Gentlemen, these facts make up for the difference in age between these young people."—From closing argument of Attorney Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for Mrs. Kip Rhinelander, in annulment suit today.

Kip Never 'Brain-Tied When He Met the Girls,' Declares Davis

The spectators laughed.

"He's a sly old fox," continued Davis. "Now we come to the amendments to the complaint. You will see Judge Mills was getting a little wobbly on his feet about the original complaint so he adds that Alice deceived his client by keeping silent. He's a sly old fox!"

Davis emphasized again the birth certificate, naturalization papers and marriage certificates of the Jones family. He declared that the marriage license of Grace was called "white" because she appeared with a white man. Emily's was marked "colored" because she appeared with a negro. In the case of Alice he said:

WAS "LIFE OF THE PARTY."

"Her marriage license was marked white because she appeared with a white man, not because of any misrepresentation on Alice's part."

"This blushing, stammering boy could easily become the life of a party of girls," the attorney continued. "This blushing, stammering, innocent boy could get away with eight ounces of alcohol, according to the record. Whether they gave it to him in a bottle and nipple or not I don't know."

The courtroom rocked with laughter. A faint smile crossed Alice's face and Leonard blushed.

Davis then shouted, both fists clenched above his head:

"Some powerful force is pushing Rhinelander forward. Some powerful, relentless hand is at his back. Whether it is to save family name or not I don't know."

Then in a soft, whining voice he turned toward Leon R. Jacobs, Rhinelander's attorney of record, and sneered:

"There you have the role of Mr. Jacobs in this case. Why was young Rhinelander forced to sign away $[illegible] to Jacobs that time he went to the Jones home? Why, gentlemen, to get money to start this lawsuit which he (Rhinelander) had not authorized! There you see, gentlemen, the iron hand at the back of this youth."

FAST AT MAKING LOVE.

Jacobs smiled and shifted uneasily in his chair. Holding up the complaint Davis said, as he took it:

"The pen that signed this complaint came from the pocket of Jacobs. I say, gentlemen, there is something strange about the signing of the complaint. They say it was signed in a subway station. Gentlemen, that is ridiculous. You know it is not so and I know it.

"And this paper, gentlemen, was signed and sworn to six days after that money was signed over to Jacobs. Gentlemen, I repeat there is something strange about the signing of this complaint."

Scores Mrs. Rich for 'Crashing Society in Chop Suey Clothes'

Davis next reviewed the testimony bearing on Leonard's backward mentality.

"They say he was backward at remembering and reciting pieces from the Bible, but he was a fine tennis player. He even won a prize at it. He was slow at mathematics, but fast at making love. Gentlemen, did you ever see one of those boys slow at spelling but mighty good at making love? Gentlemen, they have tried to make you believe this boy is brain tied.

CRASHES OUT OF SOCIETY.

The court room roared with laughter at Davis' reference to the social ambitions of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rich of Mount Vernon, who testified against Alice.

"Oh, yes! Mrs. Rich was going to break into society. Going out with the Rhinelanders—the Rhinelanders themselves. Oh, yes, the Rhinelanders! We must have them out to dinner.

"So they crashed into society. I'll bet Mrs. Rich spent four hours dressing the night they went to the chop suey joint. She was all dressed up in her evening chop suey clothes.

"Alice wore long sleeves, and so she didn't show the beautiful Alice complexion of her arms. But Mrs. Rich dolled all up in those chop suey clothes to crash society in a chop suey joint; and then she was terribly peeved when this case broke. For she was crashed out of society, through a trap door!"

"This youth, simon pure, goes into the Marie Antionette, signs the register and takes the girl there with him. He signs in a bold, calm hand. He doesn't show a tremor. Gentlemen, was he so innocent?

"Do you think, gentlemen, that Mr. Philip K. Rhinelander did not know who Leonard was going with when he sent him on that expensive trip—for expensive it must have been—through the Canal, up the Pacific coast, to Honolulu and then to an expensive cowboy school"—gentlemen, he did know and that is why he is not here in court!

KIP "INNOCENCE ABROAD!"

"Gentlemen, it takes a man of some brains and character to sit in that witness stand as Leonard K. Rhinelander did. We threw questions at him fast and furious and whenever we were mistaken he corrected us—that poor brain tied youth! I admit we purposely laid ourselves open to correction to see what he would do."

Davis caused much amusement by imitating the voice and gestures of his opposing counsel, Judge Mills. He growled like an infuriated dog, shook his jowls, and mussed his hair and referred to the jurors as "good citizens of fair Westchester."

Mills smiled complacently.

"Who first conceived the idea of those affairs with Alice? Why, Mr. Innocence Abroad!" (shaking his finger at Rhinelander).

READS KIP LOVE LETTER.

Davis read from a letter Leonard wrote Alice on October 2, 1921, wherein Kip said:

"If you'll be real nice to me, I'll let you drive."

"Now, gentlemen, what did he mean by 'nice?' This poor brain-tied youth! This Innocence Abroad!

"Gentlemen, you'll remember that on the stand he admitted that 'nice' meant he wanted to caress her! Innocence abroad!

"How dare any man come here after that and expose this girl to the world?"

Attorney Davis scored Rhinelander as a "sophisticated young rounder" who took "a humble girl into a luxurious limousine" and lured her to [illegible].

"Gentlemen, would you take his word in your business life," he asked. "If you wouldn't, then how dare you annul this marriage? How dare you give credit to this man's word. Gentlemen, I can never forgive a man who deceives a mother—who takes her daughter away as he took Alice!"

ASKS VERDICT FOR GIRL.

Davis then dramatically recited how Leonard, after the newspapers had told of his marriage to a negress, had remained with his wife, "because he knew what he had married." Suddenly turning to Jacobs he then cried:

"He remained with her until you came and I'd like to know why you came and where you came from!

You'll never deny the Ku Klux story because you don't dare! You wouldn't risk cross-examination on that stand to save your life."

He reverted to the color phase.

"Look at Mr. Jones, does he look like an Englishman with the jaundice? You have had a long, continuous attack, Mr. Jones! Gentlemen, use your eyes and bring in a verdict for this girl! They haven't claimed Rhinelander was blind, but I guess they forgot."

COOLIDGE WILL STUDY LEWIS' COAL LETTER

Washington, Dec. 1 (A.P.)—President Coolidge is growing much interested in the coal situation, but for the present is committing himself to no course of action.

It was hinted at the White House today he had been awaiting the outcome of Governor Pinchot's effort to settle the anthracite suspension.

The direct contact the President has with the situation arises from a letter to him by John L. Lewis, president of the Miners' Union, asking the Federal government's view of the failure of some bituminous mining companies to keep a wage agreement with the union.

The query is regarded by the President as touching so directly the anthracite situation, that a delay in answering is necessary.

Philadelphia, Dec. 1 (A.P.)—Major William W. Inglis, chairman of the anthracite operators wage negotiating committee, discussing today the action of the mine owners in rejecting the peace proposals of Governor Pinchot which were accepted by the United Mine Workers, said the door to a resumption of negotiations is not closed.

He pointed to the operators' offer of two weeks ago, rejected by President Lewis of the miners, as a basis for taking up anew the differences which have kept the mines idle three months.

Close observers profess to see progress in the controversy. The contending forces now have before them Mr. Lewis' "clarifying restatement" of the miners' position issued two weeks ago, the proposals of the Governor and the plan recently submitted by the operators to Mr. Lewis. Out of these it is felt in some quarters that a plan satisfactory to both sides might be evolved.

ADMITS KILLING CHUM 'BECAUSE HE GOT NOTION'

McGeehan, he took $5.20 from the dead man's clothing, went out and spent the day playing pool, and ended it by going to a movie and buying ice cream sodas for three girls.

Pirie said he arrived home shortly after midnight Saturday and found his friend, Nye, asleep. He awakened him and they chatted pleasantly.

The pair were alone in the apartment, Gordon's mother being in a hospital and his sister visiting relatives. Both finally went to sleep.

Pirie awoke early and then, suddenly the notion of killing Nye came to him, he said.

200-LB. 'FIFI' NAMED IN TONG DEATH TRIAL

Prosecutor Gets Shock When Chinaman Takes Five Minutes to Say "Yes"

A new figure—that of "Fifi," a six-foot, 200-pound Chinaman—[illegible] today the [illegible] of Ah Fong, for the murder of [illegible] Wong last September 12 [illegible] of the many Tong outbreaks.

Fong is accused of [illegible] Wong in front of No. 18 Hudson street in broad daylight. Fong [illegible]

Special officers Joseph P. Sullivan and Joseph E. Murphy of the LaGrange street station admitted that [illegible] the murderer [illegible] "Fifi," who is five inches taller and fifty-five pounds heavier than Ah Fong.

[illegible] the policemen said they [illegible] which [illegible] Fong.

The [illegible] that has a [illegible] in order to [illegible] was [illegible] today but [illegible] English.

[illegible] for the [illegible] Chinese witnesses, [illegible] Assistant District Attorney [illegible] Kuan, the interpreter [illegible] witnesses to reply [illegible]

[illegible] asked Chin Ing, a kin of the dead man: "Did you talk with W[illegible] on the morning of the murder, September 12?"

The question was put by Fong and [illegible] began a long singsong [illegible]

The seconds ticked off for the greater part of five minutes. When it ceased and the [illegible] Chinese interpreter turned to [illegible] and said:

"Yes."

Chin Ing, a cousin of the murdered man, also testified, and evidence was put in [illegible] relative to the murder scene by Patrolmen Joseph A. Clark and Peter McGrath of the LaGrange street station, Police Sergeant Thomas McTiernan and Henry J. Clayton, fire prevention commissioner for Boston, and a draughtsman, who drew a plan of the scene.

Now It's the High Cost of Dying

T[illegible] drowned today of a gravediggers' strike in Chicago, where 200 steerers of the spade want more money and a shorter [illegible] or something. And in Boston the gravediggers viewed the [illegible] calmly, soliloquizing somewhat as follows—perhaps:

To dig, or not to dig; that is the question:
Whether 'tis cricket in the pit to putter,
And purl a pickax in our merry manner,
Or to define a spade in truth as spadelike
And boost the cost of dying—as out in Chi;
To come out bold for heavy gold, and more—
[illegible] shorter graves, and double time to lay
Those six-footers; 'twould be hotsy totsy
[illegible] to be wish'd. They die, we sleep;
[illegible] sleep, we long have dream'd up, we're the dubs.
[illegible] the time for all good men in death
[illegible] bit of sugar to the bunch
[illegible] to dig. This is the dope.
[illegible] cool our smarting, stinging hands
[illegible] palms whose itch long ceased to [illegible]
[illegible] contumely. So now we are dern tootin'
[illegible] conscience won't make cowards of us all
[illegible] of great pits and moments
[illegible] us rather bear those ills we have [illegible] others that we know not of.
[illegible] want more gate.

FINDS WOMAN SUICIDE IN TUB

Worcester, Dec. 1.—Summoned by the agonized [illegible] of a woman [illegible] Dr. Robert [illegible] at No. [illegible] street, [illegible] a bathroom door and found Mrs. Lena Butterworth, 42, lying in a bathtub with her throat cut from ear to ear.

In the woman's right hand was the razor she apparently had drawn across her throat. Mrs. Butterworth died as she was being taken to City Hospital.

The woman was alone in the house when she took the fatal stroke. Her husband, mother and two sons had just left the house when the phone call was sent to Dr. Ellis.

She was beyond all aid but was still alive. The physician called a police ambulance and a race against death was started to the City Hospital. Almost as the ambulance left the Butterworth home the woman died.

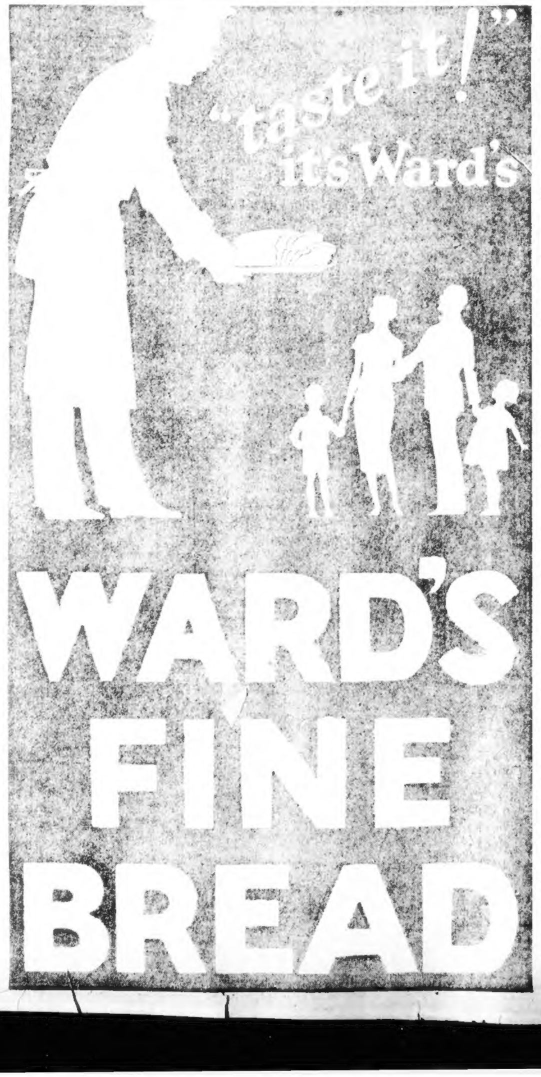
EX-RED SOX STAR FINED

Springfield, Dec. 1.—Curtis H. Fullerton, former Red Sox pitcher, now with the New York Yankees, appeared in local district court today charged with carrying a gun. He was also accused of driving an automobile without registration.

He was sentenced to six months on the revolver charge, but the sentence was suspended on condition that he have nothing more to do with guns. He was fined $20 on the registration charge.

The pitcher and his friends, Edward F. Morgan, who lives with him at 27 Falcon street, East Boston, and Henry J. Landry of Lowell, were returning to Boston from Florida.

They stopped here to ask Patrolman Kennedy the road to Boston. He asked for the license and registration and Curtis couldn't produce the latter. Then a search revealed the gun.



WASHINGTON ELM 'SCANDAL' IN CAMBRIDGE

Boy Scouts Denied Souvenirs Given Freely to Visiting Notables

While officials of the Park Department were sending word throughout the country today that the 1,500 sections of the old Washington Elm had been disposed of and that the requests of Boy Scouts for pieces of the old tree could not be fulfilled, it was learned by city officials that, when Graham McNamee, radio announcer, appeared in this city, it was arranged to "dig up" a section of the old tree for him.

This action came after Professor [illegible] Doten, chairman of the Park Commission, had stated that the sections "have been gone for many months."

Other [illegible] who have been the guests [illegible] recently have also received sections of the tree, according to charges.

At least 200 letters from members of Boy Scout troops, particularly of Iowa, West Virginia and South Carolina, have been received by the Park Commission, according to Miss Rose Manning, who was ordered by officials of the commission to send out word that the elm was gone.

Professor Doten stated that he had ordered Miss Manning to send word through a news service to other sections of the country to the effect that the elm was gone, in order to stop the Boy Scouts from sending further requests for parts of the tree.

Residents of this city, however, were not to be notified, according to Professor Doten.

The requests from the Boy Scouts came as a result of statements in publications in Iowa, West Virginia and South Carolina, to the effect that the Cambridge Park Department would send the gavels on request.

Professor Doten stated that no authorization had ever been given for such statements.

WOMAN ON TRIAL IN CAMBRIDGE AID FRAUD

Because she is alleged to have received aid from the city of Cambridge fraudulently, Mrs. Anastasia Sparos of Cambridge went on trial in Middlesex Superior Court, charged with larceny of $772.80. According to testimony of Secretary James E. Finnegan of the Cambridge board of public welfare, the woman received weekly aid on her declaration that her husband was not supporting her. When the board, after more than a year of aiding the wife, had the husband arrested for non-support, it was learned, the witness said, that Sparos has been paying his wife money every week through his brother.

OVERWORK ROW CLOSES BIG BIDDEFORD MILL

Biddeford, Me., Dec. 1 (A.P.).—The plant of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company, employing 3,500 hands, was shut down indefinitely today as a result of the weavers refusing to adopt the multiple loom system.

The move to introduce the multiple loom system was made a month ago. Then, according to the terms of the agreement, union men say, each weaver with the assistance of a helper was to run 18 looms. The weavers claim they were called on to run 22 looms.

Members of the local union state that a strike would have been called this afternoon.

JAIL EXPRESS THIEF, NABBED AFTER CHASE

There was a lull in traffic at Boylston and Washington streets today and it proved to be an unfortunate hiatus for Walter Dixon of Tremont street, Roxbury. For the break gave Traffic Officer William Dooley a chance to gaze about him for a moment and his gaze fell on Walter just as that worthy was getting away with a bundle from an express wagon.

Walter played hare and William hound. Result—in municipal court Walter was sentenced to six months for the larceny charge and one year for possessing narcotics, which were found on him.

RULES OLD-AGE PENSION IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton has formally notified Conrad W. Crooker, attorney for Joseph La Fontaine of Brockton and others, that their initiative petition for a non-contributory old age pension system is outside the scope of the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution, and therefore unconstitutional. The petitioners have intimated that in the event of an adverse ruling they would bring the question before the Supreme Court on an appeal.

HOPE TO SAVE SCHOONER TOM BEATTIE FROM REEF

Local shipping did not suffer so greatly in the week-end storm as was feared. The two-masted schooner Tom Beattie which was believed to be a total loss on a reef near Dipper Island, Nova Scotia, may be saved, according to word received today.

The schooner A. F. Davidson, driven ashore at Tarpaulin Cove, Vineyard Haven, and also believed a total loss, was today able to proceed under its own sail, apparently undamaged.

Is a Bad Back Keeping You Miserable?

The Warning of a Continual Backache Is Too Often Ignored Until a Serious Condition Develops

Do you get up these December mornings feeling lame, stiff—achy all over? Are you so tired, weak and nervous it seems you can never get back in trim? Does your back ache day after day? Sharp pains torture you at every move?

Surely, then, something is wrong! Is it your kidneys?

Winter, you know, is danger time for the kidneys. That's because colds and chills throw an unusually heavy strain on the hard-working kidneys. Once the kidneys slow up, poisons and impurities accumulate and cause an upsetting of the whole system. One is apt to suffer constant backache, lameness, soreness and stiffness, headaches and dizziness, and feel always tired, nervous and depressed—all worn out.

Fortunately, kidney disorders are usually easily corrected if treated early. Neglected, there is danger of serious sickness.

Why risk neglect? If you have reason to suspect your kidneys, give Doan's Pills a trial.

Doan's are for the kidneys only. They have been used successfully for over thirty-five years. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Boston People:

GEORGE SULLIVAN, barber, 51 Warren Ave., says: "A severe cold put me in a weak condition and disordered my kidneys, too. My back ached a great deal and every time I stooped, sharp pains took me with each move I made. At times I could hardly get up or down. My kidneys acted too freely. Doan's Pills proved just what I needed, for two boxes from Morse-Sturnick's Drug Store completely cured me."

MRS. A. PERKINS, 371 Silver St., S. Boston, says: "My back was lame and weak and sharp pains darted through the small of it. They were so intense I could hardly get up or down. I never knew what a good night's rest was and mornings I felt tired and unrefreshed. I always felt languid and many times I had to sit down and rest. After using Doan's Pills, from Liggett's Drug Store, every symptom left and I felt better in general."

BURN $3,500 IN BILLS TO KEEP HANDS WARM

Gloucester Fishermen Nearly Perish at Sea; Buffeted for Week in Disabled Launch

After a week on the open sea in a disabled launch, during which time they became so crazed by the cold that they burned $3,500 in small bills, for the little warmth it would give, three men arrived in Boston today aboard the steam trawler Spray.

The three, George Martin of Malden and Vito Lochuco and Frank Ventimiglia of Gloucester, were rescued by the steam trawler Ripple and transfered to the Spray, after they had drifted to a point 123 miles off Cape Cod, while a Coast Guard cutter was searching for them.

They left Gloucester in the thirty-foot boat, Mary Scola, last Monday. They started back that night, but in the heavy seas the boat sprung a leak and the motor became crippled.

Bailing and pumping, they managed to keep the water from swamping the small boat, as it drifted southeast. On Tuesday they sighted a three-master and, soaking their overcoats in gasoline, they burned them as a torch, but the schooner did not sight them.

After drifting Tuesday night and Wednesday without coats to protect them from the cold, they broke up the bunks for firewood.

When at last their matches and fuel gave out, and they were semi-delirious from the cold, they ignited the bills one at a time by sparking them on the batteries.

TRUCK HITS TRAIN; DRIVER HURT; SEIZED AS DRUNK

Coasting down a steep grade in a heavily-loaded truck, Harold Molloy of No. 798 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, drove into the rear car of a Boston-bound freight train at Stony Brook Crossing, Waltham, demolishing the truck and narrowly escaping death himself.

The gates were down, the police say, when Molloy's truck crashed through them. After the driver was taken to Waltham Hospital suffering from a broken nose and numerous bruises and lacerations, he was arrested in a ward, charged with drunkenness.

BOARD APPROVES GEN. DUNN FOR HIS OLD JOB

The civil service commission today approved the appointment by Mayor Curley of General John H. Dunn as soldiers' relief commissioner. Other appointments approved were that of Daniel T. O'Connell as trustee of the statistical department and Luther C. Greenleaf and Dana Somes to the zoning administration. Gen. Dunn resigned as soldiers' relief commissioner shortly after becoming candidate for mayor and following his withdrawal from the race was reappointed by Mayor Curley.

REINDEER IN FINE FETTLE OVER SNOW

Boys will be boys and girls will be girls—whether they be six or sixty—when it comes to the matter of circuses, parades and reindeer; and in proof of this are the crowds of old and young children that throng daily about the Boston Evening American reindeer encampment on the Common, good-naturedly jostling and pushing for a peep of Santa's famous steeds.

Today's flurry of snow was the one thing needed to put Donder and Blitzen, Dancer and Prancer, Dasher and Vixen entirely at ease in their new Boston home.

Today a carload of California alfalfa arrived especially for the reindeers' delectation, and "Bob" Marokwok, their Eskimo trainer, reported that all six displayed hearty appetites at breakfast.

KIDDIES ADORE ESKIMO

Rivalling Santa Claus himself in the hordes of tiny visitors' affections is the picturesque Eskimo lad, Robert Mayokwok. Clad in his fur leggings and sealskin suit, Bob patiently answers all the children's questions, tells them "why reindeers have horns," "how reindeers make the grade of rooftops," and he has eclipsed all movie and baseball idols in their hearts. They tag him devotedly about the corral and shadow his every move.

Santa Claus, garbed in his red costume, with flowing white beard and rosy cheeks, and jolly as ever, is on hand every day from 10 in the morning till 4 in the afternoon to conduct the children about the corral.

On Saturday an excursion for the reindeer and Santa Claus to Salem has been planned. They were invited to visit the quaint, old town on invitation of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, and a parade for the benefit of the school children and a big, reindeer "rodeo" has been arranged.

EVERYBODY INVITED.

The reindeer will remain in their Common home until Christmas Day, and children from all over New England are cordially invited to come and view them.

All letters to Santa Claus containing requests for the gifts he leaves when he and his reindeer make their annual Christmas Eve rounds should be addressed to "Santa Claus," care of the Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.

CUP FOR WINNER IN COMPETITIVE DRILL

Governor Fuller will present the Army and Navy Club cup at a competitive drill exhibition between platoons representing the Army, Navy, Marines and National Guard, at Mechanics Hall, Thursday evening, in connection with the annual Army and Navy Ball. Members of the 101st Infantry will represent the National Guard, the Marines will come from Quantico, Va., the sailors from Newport, and the soldiers from the 13th Infantry stationed in Boston.

WHITE SWORN IN OFFICE BY MAYOR-ELECT

Thomas W. White was sworn in as collector of Internal Revenue today, succeeding Malcolm E. Nichols, mayor-elect of Boston. The offices of the Internal Revenue Department in the Park Square building were filled with floral offerings, both for the retiring collector and for the incoming official. White was formerly State budget commissioner and chairman of the State Commission on Administration and Finance.

Mayor-elect Nichols administered the oath of office to Mr. White and the latter swore in the following assistants: George W. Britt, chief office deputy; John T. Hawes, chief field deputy; Cornelius A. Leary, chief clerk; Minnie L. Donovan, chief of the accounting division; George W. Barrett, cashier; Harry C. Woodill, chief of the income tax division; Nathaniel F. T. Nichols, chief of the auditing section; William M. Hoar, chief of the miscellaneous sales division; Edward MacHarrie, assistant chief field deputy; Henry R. Hamilton and Miss Jane E. Maynes, secretaries to the collector, and Frank J. Cavanaugh, chief of the supply division. Of the executive department there were: Alice E. Sughrue, Mary Barter, Mildred G. Mosman, Dorothy T. Ferbhaus and Joseph F. Timilty, supervisor of accounts and collections.

There are no changes in the office staff.

5 ARRESTED IN 'CRIME' DRIVE

Patrolmen Arthur Tiernan of East Dedham street station and Thomas O'Malley of Roxbury Crossing station joined forces today and corraled five young men at Castle and Tremont streets.

John H. Lyons of West Canton street admitted connection with automobile thefts, as did John McAvoy of West Brookline street, according to the police; Walter Eves of Ivy street was found to be wanted for the larceny of an automobile, a bullet wound in the finger of Charles Roper of Myrtle street caused him to be held as a suspicious person, and Joseph Camuro was found to be wanted for receiving stolen goods.

All the men were held to be viewed by holdup victims.

One Year to Pay

Timely Advice—Beware! Beware! Beware!
Burned Skin Hudson Seal Coat
Sold for $25.00

1—Bought at a sale where all $350 Coats were marked to $250.
2—Eight breaks first months repaired free of charge.
3—Second year Coat brought back for tears and was told that the firm did not keep coats in repair forever.
4—Coat brought to us for repairs.
5—We examined the Coat and found we could not even repair same on account of the weak and BURNED skins used in the MFG.
6—We showed the skins to the owner and tore them as easily as we would ordinary paper.
7—Advised her that we would be robbing her to repair her Coat as it would break and continue to break as long as she owned it.
8—Sold her Coat as is for $25.00.
9—Only consolation that she did not pay $350 instead of $250.

IF THIS LADY

Bought a Dolan Coat and it turned out like this one we would pull it from her back and give her every dollar she had paid us or give her another Coat of the same Value from stock.
QUESTION—How can you sew a rotten piece of leather or skin to a good piece and expect it to stand the least strain? It simply can't be done.
We stand ready at all times to prove every claim we have made from time to time in the public press regarding Burnt Skins.

THOUSANDS OF COATS

Made from Burnt Skins are manufactured and sold to the innocent public each year. Guard yourself by buying from a reliable house. To those who have been STUNG we are sorry. To those who are about to buy a Fur Coat, groping in the dark as it were seeking to at least procure an Honest Value for an Honest Dollar, we say, Beware! Beware!

POLITICAL FOES GIVE NICHOLS DOUBLE PAY

A doubled pay check will greet Mayor-elect Malcolm E. Nichols on next January 4 when he settles himself back comfortably in the swivel chair on the second floor front at City Hall. As was predicted exclusively in the Boston Evening American last Saturday, the Mayor will receive $20,000 a year.

In the nature of an inaugural present is the $10,000 representing the 100 per cent. salary boost, and it was the generosity of Mayor Curley and the city council that made it possible.

Mayor Curley advocated raising the chief executive's money to $15,000 a year, the council jumped it to $25,000—and then a compromise at $20,000 was reached, and passed.

Killed Making Children Happy

North Adams, Dec. 1 (I.N.S.)—While Charles Bullock, 56, was loading Christmas trees from the Berkshire Hills on to a freight car to be carried to the cities to make children happy a train ran him down. He was killed.

DECLARES HUB FACES WATER FAMINE

Metropolitan Boston faces a serious water famine within four years unless steps are taken to provide new sources of supply, an investigating committee reported to the Legislature today.

Immediate appropriation of $17,500,000 and a total appropriation of $58,500,000 to provide for Metropolitan Boston and the city of Worcester for 75 years was urged.

The situation is critical, according to the report, which declares the metropolitan district is consuming 130,000,000 gallons daily, while present sources can be depended upon for only 119,000,000 gallons.

The appropriation of $52,500,000 is asked to buy land and rights within the watersheds of the Assabet river in the central part of Massachusetts and the Ipswich river above Topsfield, besides expanding Hobbs brook reservoir which supplies Cambridge and creating a new reservoir at Barre Falls for Worcester.

Future needs will require 202,000,000 gallons a day, it is stated. A filtration plant for purifying the waters of the South Sudbury system is more immediately needed, says the report. Appointment of a commission to study details and report on December 1, 1926, is recommended.

PILLAR SLIPS, MANY IN PERIL

Lives were endangered in School street today when a one-ton column which was being hoisted into place in the new building at School and Province streets slid down on to the temporary wooden roof over the sidewalk. Traffic was barred from School street and pedestrians were allowed to walk on the City Hall side.

The breaking of a steel shackle band, one of four braces of the derrick that was hoisting the column, caused the accident. The column fell only two or three feet, the other derrick braces stopping its drop.

Pedestrians scattered but the column eased against the wooden covering which was built above the sidewalk during the construction of the eight-story bank building. Workmen repaired the brace.

MOTHER FINDS RUNAWAY SON DEAD, HIT BY AUTO

Southboro, Dec. 1—A watchful wait lasting three weeks ended today for Mrs. Mary Simpson in the news that her missing son, Harry, had been killed by an auto. The fifteen-year-old lad left home and had been using an assumed name. Today brought the news that he had stepped in front of an auto driven by Miss Philamena Laughlin and was instantly killed. He had been working for a local milk man.

AUTO PLUNGES FROM BRIDGE; DRIVER ESCAPES

Portland, Me., Dec. 1 (A.P.)—A touring car driven by James H. Edgerly of Rochester, N. H., today plunged through the side of a bridge at Danforth and St. John streets and dropped twenty feet to the railroad tracks. The car burst into flames, but Edgerly crawled out with only a few bruises.

COUNT SALM HERE TO SEE HIS WIFE

New York, Dec. 1 (A.P.)—Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoogstraeten, husband of the former Millicent Rogers, wealthy heiress, arrived from Europe today on the steamship Majestic. He declined to answer questions concerning his wife and their child, who was born in this country following the couple's estrangement in 1924.

To Heal a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. The Safe and Proven Remedy. (The First and Original Cold and Grip Tablet.) Signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 30c.—Advt.

By FAY KING.

The girl who sings a little, plays the piano rather well and dabs in oils, should, by all means, take a flier at a career before she marries some young man and makes him miserable the rest of their married life by [illegible] about the success she might have been.

How many women who have been cheered by a parlor gallery while they yodeled amateur grand opera, or mangled Mozart and Beethoven, are still secretly unhappy that they gave up fame and fortune for a husband and family!

In the success of current stage, opera, screen and concert stars, not to mention artists and authors, they see what they might have been and mourn magnificently!

Too bad they weren't cured of that by making the rounds of agents, opera houses and publishers.

The best cure for that career complex would have been a cold tackle at it, and after making the rounds of agents and studios day in and day out, with no encouragement and devastating criticism, they would have made the marriage they have made, appreciating it the more in contrast to the cold, unsympathetic portals of fame!

Even if they had made a success of their career in concert or stage work as few do, they would have found that much of the glitter is gilded and that the lonely envied lot of the star is not all that it is cracked up to be.

Why do so many really successful women make bad marriages?

Maybe it's when they have achieved all the success that they went after, they find that it is nothing compared to a home and husband, and along comes some guy who treats them, much as if they were just any woman, and they fall into his arms and support him in luxury the rest of his life!

So you see after all, they consider their chief attainment, just exactly what the woman without all the worry of a career attains!

H. H. RAYMOND NAMED DIRECTOR OF SHIP LINES

H. H. Raymond of this city has been elected a director of the Boston and Yarmouth Steamship Company and a director of Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., succeeding in both positions J. Bradford Hardon, resigned. Mr. Raymond, in addition to membership in these boards, is president of the Clyde Steamship Company and a director of the Atlantic, Gulf and Western Indies Steamship Lines, Inc. Announcement was also made of the appointment of A. [illegible] Austin as treasurer of both the Eastern Steamship and Boston and Yarmouth companies to succeed J. W. Brophy.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for coughs, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HUSBAND SAYS HE WEDDED FOR $25 A WEEK

Truly a marriage of convenience was that of Morris Friedman to Edith Weisman, the former testified in Middlesex Probate Court today but the bargain struck by his mother and her mother proved an unfortunate one indeed.

For $25 a week—the income on a property that went with the daughter of Mrs. Weisman—Morris agreed to marry Edith, he declared in defending a suit she has brought against him for separate support.

Friedman is the son of a Cambridge manufacturer and it was brought out in cross-examination that neither before nor after marriage has he worked, although he has been out of school a dozen years.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Planning Animated Advertising Adventure Keeps Society Folk Hard at Work

TWO OF BOSTON'S VERY busiest people at the moment are Miss Grace Ripley, designer of lovely gowns, and A. Lovell Little, architect, acting as supreme arbiters on costumes and scenery for society's appearance in the Animated Advertising Adventure. As December 12 draws nigh Miss Ripley's studio becomes a veritable hive of industry allied with inspiration.

COSTUMES GORGEOUS and beautiful, fanciful and mirth provoking are in the making, along with odd and unique settings. A small army of art students, down from their studies at the Museum of Fine Arts, are exercising their gifts in the way of modeling and preparing the scenic end of the undertaking.

MISS PEGGY PORTER elects to be a milk maid, a real milk maid with a real cow which will be milked by the fair Miss Peggy right on the Opera House stage. Of course the bovine member of the team is a blue ribboner, one of the prize collection from the Edwin Sibley Webster stables.

THIS MILK MAID pro tem has been in arduous training for her duties these several weeks, putting in several hours each day at acquiring the art out at her uncle's farm. By the time December 12 arrives she'll be as perfected a milker as can be found in seven counties. She advertises Whiting's milk.

LOVELY WOMAN ever delights in the trying on of hats. This pleasant duty falls to Mrs. Arthur L. Richmond who ornaments a boudoir scene with Mrs. Dick Saltonstall and Miss Josephine Jewell. Exquisite bits of furniture come from Miss Theresa Carey's collection to add their beauty.

EXOTICALLY GORGEOUS hangings and appointments form a bijou hat salon to delight the most fastidious, and the confections of headgear come from Miss Crosby's designs. All the participants are thinking up unusual touches to put the scene over as a headliner.

Photograph by Charlotte Fairchild, New York.

MRS. ARTHUR L. RICHMOND, a lovely recruit to the Animated Advertising Adventure ranks for the much-anticipated show on Saturday, December 12, at the Boston Opera House.

ANOTHER INTRIGUING number will be the shaving outfit for traveling, an enormous silken box from which step six pretty young women, a complete paraphernalia bearing the Gillette Safety Razor trade mark. One is a cake of soap, one is the lather, another the razor blade, and so on.

MISS HELEN MERRIAM, Miss Ann Williams, Miss Mary Cushing, Miss Helen Streeter, Miss Mary Weld and Mrs. Richard Hallowell are the six—a choice selection boasting chic, poise and charm to the nth degree, as do each of the young women selected by Miss Peggy Porter for the Adventure.

THE OPERA HOUSE will gleam as of Opera nights for the Adventure—Society is taking boxes and orchestra stalls with children's parties for the matinee and more formal groups for evening. Some of those entertaining will be Mesdames Sewall H. Fessenden, Charles Goddard Weld John L. Grandin, Henry Morss and Galen Stone.

THE FREDERIC CAMERON CHURCHES, JR., are—one might say—commuting between Boston and New York, so frequent are their dashes to the Big City. Mrs. Church, as the former Muriel Vanderbilt, is much in demand at Gotham functions, and frequently entertains in return.

PRESENT PLANS FOR the January marriage of Mrs. Church's sister Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, and Earl Smith, place Mrs. Church in the role of honor matron, one which she could fill with much poise and charm. This lovely, dark-eyed young matron is a distinct acquisition to Boston Smartdom, so every one agrees.

MESDAMES ROBERT GOULD SHAW, 2d, Robert Treat Paine, Hollis H. Shaw and Nathaniel Emmons, about a luncheon table at the Copley-Plaza, perfected plans for their lampshade and sofa cushion table at the Monster Tent City Bazaar for the Army and Navy Club opening tomorrow in Mechanics Hall.

EVERYTHING UNDER the sun will be spread out under the canvas tops. It's all military, one table devoted to "army packs" in miniature, and the entire bazaar set up to resemble a military training camp. The four-day program fairly overflows in excellence and variety.

MRS. NATHANIEL F. EMMONS is staging this year a Chinese evening of cabaret and dance at the Hingham Town Hall to benefit the Salvation Army. Hingham has never been treated to a Chinese fete before, and much is expected from Mrs. Emmons and her versatile corps of helpers.

COHASSET IS REPRESENTED by Mesdames Ralph Menard and Frank Sutcliffe. Mrs. Eliot Johnson will dispense cigarettes and Mrs. Rufus Folsom and Mrs. Ernest Howes are cigaret girls, due to repeat the great hit they made last year at Mrs. Emmons' cabaret. Mrs. Foster Trainer leads a fetching band of ushers.

Father O'Conor Issues Appeal for Christmas Bundle Drive to Cheer Young and Old

By JAMES WALSH

Nearly 3,000 poor kiddies of Greater Boston will be made comfortable and happy this Christmas by gifts of warm clothing from generous-hearted people who contribute annually to the Christmas bundle drive of the Catholic Charitable Bureau.

More than 150 aged men and women also will be taken care of in this manner.

The Rev. George P. O'Connor, director of the bureau, and the Rev Robert S. Barry, his assistant, make an urgent appeal this year to the kind-hearted.

"If you could see little children without food, without underwear, without shoes," Fr. O'Conor said to the Evening American; "if you could see feeble old men and old women living alone in cold rooms, without warm bed covering or warm clothes, if you knew little girls who had never seen a doll—you would want to help in the name of the Babe in the Manger.

HUNDREDS LONELY.

"There are hundreds of lonely Catholic old folk, hundreds of friendless little children who are calling to the generous Catholics of Boston to share a little of their Christmas joy."

Besides money contributions, here are some of the things that go to make the wintry weather less severe for the kiddies and old folks:

Underwear, blouses and dresses, woolen caps and worsted toques, hosiery, sweaters, night garments, woolen gloves, games and dolls; worsted jackets, flannel night dresses and petticoats and bathrobes.

Last year the Catholic Charitable Bureau provided Christmas bundles containing articles of this kind for 2,700 children and 150 old folk. Speaking of the children, Fr. O'Conor said:

"There are few fond relatives thinking of them. Many have no mothers to whom they may whisper their cherished wants. The holly in the windows, the gay-bedecked Santa Claus, the color and glory and light that brighten the show windows of every store attract their eyes, only to make them envy and think and fear.

WHO WOULD REFUSE

"Christmas holds no assurance of coming happiness for them. The poverty that was the Babe of Bethlehem is theirs also. It is for these we now appeal. Who is there that really thinks and ponders that would fail to throw open wide the gates of their hearts to receive the plea of afflicted brothers and sisters of the Christ Child?"

Of the many who make the Christmas bundle gift of the bureau possible, two prominent South Boston young women are contributing their share by giving the proceeds of a dance to be held next Monday night at The Chateau, Huntington avenue to the Christmas bundle charity.

These young women are Miss Margaret McCarthy and Miss Agnes Keefe of the Hollander Company. Leading Catholic women are patronesses of the dance. They include Mrs. M. F. Foley and Mrs. John E. Holden of Brookline, Mrs. William C. Fennessey of the South End, Mrs. Ernest A. Adams and Mrs. Fred Linnohan of Dorchester, Mrs. Paul Hines, Mrs. James J. Regan and Mrs. James P. Tancred of South Boston.

Many prominent people will be present at the dance, including Willard Tibbetts, famous Harvard athlete and Olympic champion, and several of his friends.

FRANCE TO PAY DEBTS BY TAX

Paris, Dec. 1 (A.P.).—Quick settlement of France's debts and a 10 per cent. levy on capital, payable in thirty annuities, are among the ideas considered by Louis Loucheur, finance minister in the new Briand Cabinet, essential to the restoration of France's economic situation.

The levy on capital will be used to finance a sinking fund and to extinguish short term debts.

M. Loucheur will have none of a moratorium or forced conversion of bonds which mature December 8. He will, however, be forced to borrow some eight or nine billion francs.

Interallied debts, long lost sight of during the fierce struggle over fiscal measures, again is to the fore, as a strictly balanced budget and a stable currency, essential elements to any financial restoration plan, are considered as directly dependent upon the rapid settlement of these debts. The Briand administration will resume debt funding negotiations immediately and push them through to a satisfactory conclusion.

LINER BRINGS IN 'ROUND-WORLD' BRIDAL PAIR

First Met, Wooed and Wed All in One Day Three Months Ago

About three months ago A. G. Wermisch, Hollywood millionaire, and his blushing young bride tripped gaily up the gang plank to the Dollar liner President Adams at San Francisco, 'mid a shower of rice. Today they tripped just as gaily down the gangplank from the same liner at the Army Base, South Boston, 'mid a shower of mingled snow and rain. They have been all 'round the world and are still blushing, bashful bride and groom.

Aboard the President Adams they were the prize passengers throughout the trip and, according to the story told, Wermisch met his bride, wooed and won her, was married and sailed, all in the same day. Some rapid-fire courtship and, despite the advice of Judge Sabbath of Chicago regarding tenure of engagements, it's apparently a nice one. They will continue on to San Francisco in the President Adams, but are shopping and sightseeing in Boston today.

The President Adams had twenty-six passengers all told, of whom four were for Boston and, strangely, none of them residents of this fair, though damp, city. Mr. and Mrs. James E. Richardson of St. Louis, Pietro Cavalli of Reno, Italy, and Thomas P. Monyhan of Holyoke debarked here. All hands reported a pleasant trip, especially was this true of Professor W. H. Hall of the music department at Columbia, who returned with Mrs. Hall and their daughter Alice, after a flivver trip through Europe. The flivver was lashed on the forward deck of the Adams as she steamed up the harbor.

WOMAN NAMED BY WIFE IS PARIS DANCE CULTIST

Chicago, Dec. 1 (A.P.).—A Montenegrin woman, whose life as the wife of a Russian mechanic palled after she had joined a Paris dance cult, is the Herald and Examiner's story of Mme. Olga Millnoff, named by Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright, sculptress, in her charges against Frank Lloyd Wright, an architect.

The newspaper says Mme. Millnoff, whom Wright called the housekeeper of "Taliesin," his Spring Green, Wis., estate, is 28 years old, a divorcee and the mother of a 7-year-old daughter. With her dance pupils she came here in 1922.

'L' DEFICIT FOR FOUR MONTHS $676,132

Same Period of Last Year Showed a Net Loss of More Than $1,000,000

A deficit of $676,132 for four months' operation was reported today by the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway.

The report covers the months of July to October, during which period each month showed a deficit except October, in which the net profit was $117,704. For the same four months last year the deficit was more than $1,000,000.

The average fare paid by passengers in October was 9.273 cents, while last year the average was 8.622 cents. Passengers carried in October were 31,850,155, or about 1,000,000 less than last October.

On its bus lines, of which there are now twenty-three, the Elevated annually carries 21,000,000 passengers, the trustees declare. There are forty-three miles of bus routes and 132 buses, and this, they point out, means that the road is rendering considerable service which would be impossible by cars because of the expense of laying rails.

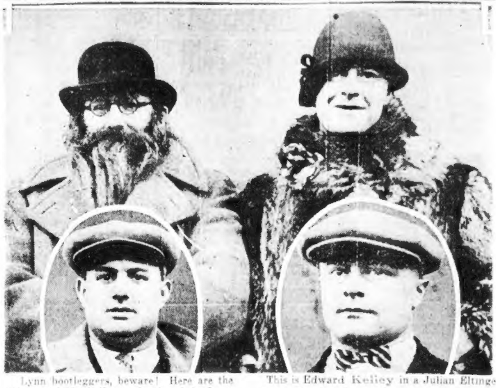
IZZY AND MOE ON JOB AND OFF



Lynn bootleggers, beware! Here are the "Izzy and Moe" liquor sleuths of the Lynn police department, in one of their disguises. The boobish looking person whose face is hidden behind the bush of hair is James Coppinger. The insert shows him as he appears without disguise.

This is Edward Kelley in a Julian Eltinge stunt. Powdered and perfumed he has brought more than one bootlegger to grief, his mincing step and bewitching ways causing vendors to aid "a lady who is a bit shaky." Inset shows him in civilian attire.

LYNN COPS DO 'IZZY' STUNTS

"Izzy" Einstein and "Moe" Smith, erstwhile Federal liquor sleuths, had nothing on the Lynn liquor squad, even in their busiest days.

If any bootlegger in Lynn can recognize James Coppinger and Edward J. Kelley, when in their makeup, as members of the Lynn liquor squad, they're wonders.

And John F. Welch, who occasionally dons the makeup when hunting liquor, is also said to be a past master at the art of keeping secret his identity.

Attired in the clothing of a common day laborer, costumed as man and wife, or attired as wealthy business men with plenty of money to spend on the "cup that cheers," "Izzy" and "Moe," as Kelley and Coppinger are best known, have made a success of their calling—the calling of tracing bootleggers to their lairs.

Recent arrests in which verdicts were returned against defendants, brought to light the unusual methods of the liquor squad. Dressed as women on occasion, Coppinger, Kelley and Welch, made repeated visits to bootleg places. Time after time they sought evidence under one disguise or another.

AMOSKEAG PAYS FOURTH OF MANCHESTER'S TAXES

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 2 (A.P.)—Today, the last day for payment of city taxes before interest charges are added, found the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company paying a tax bill of $932,970.49, which amounts to about 25 per cent of the total property tax to be assessed in this city.

Other big payments today were Manchester Traction, Light and Power Company, $101,152.40; Manchester Gas Company, $43,890, and R. G. Sullivan, cigar manufacturers, $12,905.

Appointed by Mayor

John P. Drury of No. 97 Broadway, South Boston, was today appointed a plumbing inspector in the building department at $2,380 a year by Mayor Curley.

TODAY

ian flier coming back in an Italian machine from Tokio to Rome.

Our admirable navy spent millions planning a short flight from California to Hawaii. Three planes were prepared. Two fell down, the third couldn't start.

YESTERDAY Commander Richardson at the Mitchell "trial" admitted that our airplanes sent to the Arctic and used by American fliers in races are unfit for service. But what of that? The gentlemen that control army and navy and United States aircraft are not compelled to fly in those dangerous machines.

FARMERS HUNT wild dogs in Virginia. The dogs kill sheep. Sentimentalists will weep about the hunting and killing of the dogs.

FRANK CASALE, aged forty-five, is arrested for chaining his children to the floor and flogging them with a heavy rope. He beat his wife when she released one of the children, chained down for four days. Bootleg whiskey.

BRIAND, HEAD OF the latest French government, will resume the debt talk. The United States should make settlement as easy as possible.

We are indebted to the French for teaching our public men, Jefferson, Franklin and others, to think for themselves in the eighteenth century. And if we forget gratitude we are interested selfishly in the prosperity of France.

MRS. FERGUSON, Governor of Texas, takes prohibition seriously. She wonders why they arrest bootleggers who carry two or three pints for sale, but don't arrest bootleggers worth more than $5,000.

The Lady-Governor has something to learn about American methods. In this country five thousand dollars means protection, five million dollars means immunity.

WEATHER MAN IS AGAINST FLYING OVER BOSTON

The weather man doesn't approve of air raids over Boston; that is, considering the way he is treating Army fliers ready to stage one of the features of the Tented City program.

The exhibition of flying to be given by two formations of three planes each, was to take place today at noon, but was called off by Lieutenant A. E. Jones.

Weather permitting, the fliers will "take off" tomorrow at noon and circle the city, showing manoeuvers that would be used in combating enemies of the air, should they visit here.

The movements of the formations are intricate and [illegible] interesting and instructive to the public should be performed under favorable weather conditions, says Lieutenant Jones.

A Girl's Soul Stirs and She Wonders Why; Going Out Into the World to Learn of Love

NANCY HAWTHORNE, motherless, lives in an English country village with her father. She has an experience with Curly Collins, a country boy she has befriended. She discusses what occurs with her father. Then comes a strange stirring and she decides to see the world. In Paris she meets Cornelia Evans, daughter of an American millionaire. The girls form a studio partnership. They give a housewarming. Nancy meets Jean de Courcy, French cavalry lieutenant, who pursues Cornelia. She also meets Count de Bercy Mormal, a man who accosted her in the street. The count is Cornelia's brother-in-law. Nancy scornfully rejects his friendship. Lloyd Evans, Cornelia's brother, and his chum, Bob Whittaker, Oxford undergraduates, telegraph they're coming to Paris. Nancy is strangely affected by the news. Bob comes. Nancy fancies him. Then it dawns on her that she wants to know him better. The girls meet the boys at St. Malo.

"Cigarettes?" queried Bob.

"Thanks," said Lloyd.

They went upstairs.

Bob began emptying his pockets of money on to the corner of the mantelpiece. "Lloyd, old man," he Coutu and Sylvio Mantha the Canadiens have a great all-around outer defence. Coutu is a veteran who knows every trick of the game. It is next to impossible to outguess him and the way in which he breaks up plays is uncanny. Coutu is a great offensive player. He is fast and, like every one of his teammates, a past master at stick handling, coupled with a great shot. Sylvio Mantha, rated as one of the speediest men the game has ever produced, has few, if any weaknesses.

Although the veteran Georges Vezina is the regular goal tender for the Canadiens, there is a possibility of Alphonse [illegible] Lacroix, the former Newton High School and B. A. SPORT EDITORIAL

THE hammers are out for football. The [illegible] clanging merrily. The game, the obje[illegible] been over-emphasized. Instead of a branch [illegible] ties it has become the whole works. Something [illegible] done about it.

Harvard is having a debate on the matter [illegible] night. The Harvard Crimson has started a drive to [illegible] if there is any possible method of resisting the [illegible] iron fever.

The same sort of thing in a [illegible] is on foot down at Yale. Seems to us that football [illegible] over-emphasized in the least. It's an American [illegible] which cannot be erased any more than baseball [illegible] other strictly native products.

The value of victory is over-emphasized however. That's why the protests come from Harvard [illegible] now, why there is unrest at Yale. We haven't heard a howl from the [illegible] of Hanover, where victorious Dartmouth belongs. There has been no wail from Princeton where the triumphant Tigers hold forth.

Would Harvard be objecting if it had been beaten by Princeton? We think not. A season's record has much to do with the football frenzy that [illegible] breaks out the first week in December.

Football makes good American citizens. The boys who play learn to take the knocks and bumps, to fight in the face of defeat, to give everything they have for principle. It's a rugged lesson but it stands well by them out in the world.

Hundreds of them made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, died [illegible] and fighting. Johnny Poe of Princeton, Spud Piston of Dartmouth, Aleck Wilson of Yale are just a few. The scrolls of glory are thick with great football names.

Success in life attends the football player at least as frequently as it does his brother who follows the academic trail and doesn't bother with his college sports.

Victory, as we have pointed out, is over-emphasized. Football itself helps rather than hurts the colleges. And the colleges, unless wrapped in the gloom of defeat, realize it.—NICK FLATLEY

Both—mildness and fullness!

Real delicacy of aroma but without loss of natural tobacco taste and character

"They satisfy and yet they're mild"—this is no mere catch-phrase; it's a taste-description of Chesterfield.

MILDNESS and fullness, the North and South poles of cigarette taste—can they be brought together in one cigarette? Seemingly no; practically yes, and with no compromise or loss of either.

It calls for the best in tobaccos; tobaccos of rare delicacy—the tender silky leaf of the costliest Turkish type; tobaccos of rich mellowness and "body"—the choicest of fine old Burley and other Domestic varieties.

But fine tobaccos alone are not enough. To achieve mildness with fullness, to preserve natural tobacco taste and character without a trace of heaviness, to produce a cigarette that satisfies and that, at the same time, is mild—here is a job that calls not only for the choicest tobaccos, but for the highest degree of skill in blending them.

And in the Chesterfield blend you have it—the exact balancing of one tobacco against another, the accurate toning and shading of each type of leaf, the rich mildness, the satisfying fullness, the rounded-out completeness which belong to Chesterfield and—because the blend can't be copied—to Chesterfield alone!

[illegible] academic standing [illegible]

GAME GOOD IN THEORY

In theory football is good for the players, for the general body of undergraduates, and for the alumni. For the players [illegible] to build character, to [illegible] courage, and to develop [illegible] manship, but present [illegible] tends to rob the game of [illegible] and make [illegible] business. For the general [illegible] undergraduates [illegible] force and [illegible] the [illegible] present over-emphasis tends to give it a false importance which distorts the students' sense of college values. For alumni, football is a magnet, [illegible] graduates back to the college and serving to renew their [illegible] affairs of the college [illegible] the man [illegible] matters of [illegible] importance [illegible]

The Crimson has offered these suggestions as first measures looking to an ultimate correction of these evils.

ABOUT BUDGETS

And now for a last word about budgets. I think this will be our last talk on this subject, although I will be glad to help you individually with your budgets from time to time.

The budget that we decided on as [illegible] WNAC American [illegible] 20 per cent on [illegible] savings and [illegible] church donations, social life, [illegible] doctor's bills, gifts, new [illegible] and personal expenditures [illegible] food budget out of every [illegible] spent 20 [illegible] eggs and [illegible] and 1.5 quart for each [illegible] minimum milk allowance [illegible] more for meats and bread [illegible] vegetables and fruits 20 [illegible] sugar and miscellaneous [illegible] necessary [illegible] used [illegible] the week has been bought.

First plan your separate meals, make out your grocery order and whenever possible purchase at least a week's supply of staples at one time. Delicate seasoning, good cooking and attractive serving will make up for a lack of out-of-season delicacies and fussy recipes. Let simplicity be your standard. Save the natural flavors of the food and also your own strength.

MARKETING TESTS

While [illegible] marketing there are [illegible] questions [illegible] be asked: "Can I afford to buy this?" and "Can I afford not to buy it?" If the food is essential for the health of the family, of course you cannot afford not to buy it. [illegible] operating expenses [illegible] heat [illegible] and water, laundry service, telephone, repairs and replacements of household equipment, household supplies [illegible] groceries such as soap, brooms, brushes and so forth, postage, express and so forth.

After you have decided to base a budget, the next thing is to stick to it.

Don't forget that I am [illegible] here within reach of a 2c stamp, willing and anxious to help you in every way possible.

[illegible] penses. If we go back [illegible]

Lloyd grunted by way of reply. He was staring out of the open window as he [illegible] silver pathway of [illegible] moon on the quietly lifting sea. [illegible] beauty was lost on [illegible] there was a deep frown [illegible] parents [illegible] problem [illegible]

Bob was already [illegible]

Lloyd pulled [illegible] and climbed into [illegible] a time he watched Bob's cigarette glowing intermittently like a firefly. At last he [illegible]

The answer came drowsily. "Uhuh?"

NO TILLY STUFF

Lloyd's enunciation took on an edge like a knife. "[illegible] old man, we don't want any Tillie stuff around here."

For a moment there was silence. Then Bob jerked up on one elbow. "What the hell do you mean?" he snapped.

Lloyd saw no need to answer. The question, he knew, was purely rhetorical.

"What are you going to do with life, Bob?"

Nancy's question had been led up to by a long morning together [illegible] St. Malo, a morning of [illegible] dering and incessant talking.

As she looked at [illegible] asked the question, with a touch of peremptoriness that was a confession of the familiarity of mind with which she regarded him, Nancy found it difficult to visualize her former state of uncertainty.

"That's more than a question," said Bob. "It's a most [illegible] expression of your mental [illegible]"

"How do you make that out?" asked Nancy.

"Why, most people put it the other way round. They wonder what life is going to do to them. The only people who have the nerve to take life in their two hands and squeeze it dry, like a sponge, are the ones whose names live—Napoleon, Nelson, Garibaldi and in our own time, that fellow Rajah Brooke and H. G. Wells. Are you going to be one of them? You're so amazingly definite."

Nancy laughed. "Oh, nonsense!" she said. "Don't be idiotic." Nevertheless, if her mind refused to play with the idea, she was not unpleased with Bob for uttering it. She added, "In any case"—and thus did she admit it—"you haven't answered my question."

"It's not easy to answer," said Bob, "unless one starts off negatively and says what one is not going to do with it."

ELIMINATION

"People have been known to arrive at something definite by a process of elimination! Proceed, oh cautious one, and give me a cigarette."

The picture as Bob had drawn it for her may have been one-sided. The majority of parents, however, would be aghast if once during their lifetime they could learn the complete truth of what they seem in the eyes of their children.

"You see," said Bob, "at Oxford one hears a lot of men yapping about what they are going [illegible] the Bar, politics, the Church and all that stuff. To me it's like the babbling of kiddies of six who say they want to be a policeman when they grow up. They are all vastly concerned with that stultifying word [illegible] want to get on [illegible] top of the tree [illegible] words to get into the [illegible] there [illegible] they [illegible] smugly content to sit down in it and bask. In their own words they will have 'arrived.' They don't know it, but they [illegible] begin to wonder, in a dumb [illegible] way, what they have missed [illegible] life [illegible] thing be more [illegible]? When I listen to all that and I [illegible] that one can [illegible] college between [illegible] it makes me feel [illegible] apologetic that I should be such an ass as to think differently. But when I get away from the superiority of numbers all my unanswered [illegible] questionings come back."

"I know!" said Nancy, nodding.

[illegible] Oxford [illegible] knew how to think till I went up. I'm not sure that I do now, but at least I've made a beginning. I no longer accept anything at its conventionally accepted value [illegible] reached the state of mind when I want to prove everything for myself." He stopped. "Am I boring you?" His eyes went to hers [illegible] It wouldn't have helped her to utter a polite "no."

He didn't have to worry. Nancy pushed the question aside altogether. "What sort of thing do you want to prove—the whole sociological tangle?" She was leaning on her elbows, her chin cupped in her hands. Her hat was off and her mass of [illegible] hair was deliciously rumpled by the breeze.

Bob gave a little laugh—not so much a laugh as a nervous expression of the thrill of satisfied ego [illegible] a woman's whole and [illegible] vided attention gives to any man of whatever age. The consciousness of it deflected his line of thought, colored it.

WOMEN—AND MEN

MORE than thirty years ago, when I came first as a young English princess to Rumania, I learned that the interests of men and of women are entirely different.

I learned that a man can be perfectly happy with just work and his own ambitions to fill his life. And that a woman must have something outside of herself to love.

When I first came to my new home I was very strange and very lonely. I was also not in my best health and I used to curl into a corner and try to think things out.

I saw the old King Carol, to whom work and power spelt life. His days were one continuous program of thought and toil, never based on impulse, but scheduled like a railway train. He was building up a country of which he was the very core and motive power. He needed nothing else in his life. Emotion, adventure, love, friendships—none of these was necessary to his happiness.

It puzzled me, because my own desires were all for these things. I wanted friends, companions of my own age. I longed to [illegible] other personalities and to tell others in turn about myself. I was not satisfied with state receptions and formal dinners. They gave me no pleasure. I wanted something to love.

I had a bird, a bullfinch, I had brought with me in a little cage from England and I made him my friend. He used to sing a tune we had taught him by whistling—a pathetic little song. He would hop round my room and entertain me for hours with his little cunning ways and his song.

Then he was killed in an accident — trodden upon—and I made myself ill crying at my bereavement.

It was then that I learned how dependent is woman upon something outside herself — her lover, her husband, her young brother or sister, her parents, her child. Ah, her child! When she has none of these she turns to some form of personal work—teaching, nursing, philanthropy.

She cannot be happy alone, in, of and for herself.

Whereas man can.

I found myself becoming fairly certain that if I had "bothered" Jim with such details he would have told me not to bore him with so much small talk.

"Jim can just wait until I speak to him again," I told myself vindictively, as I went over and shut the door with a defi[illegible]

THE EMPIRE BUILDER

AS the architect of his own fortune Edward L. Doheny has been a master builder. Few men [illegible] a land of opportunity [illegible]

He was born in Fond du Lac, Wis., in 1856, in very moderate circumstances. Though obliged to work to swell the family income he managed to attend school part of each Winter and graduated earlier than many boys who attend the full school year.

The blood of the pioneer ran in Doheny's veins. It thirsted to break into the wildernesses and made him join a Government surveying party en route to Oklahoma. Though only seventeen he journeyed on to Mexico to buy mules for the United States Government.

There he found his first opportunity to make real money and scraped together enough cash to buy 92 head of horses sold by the Mexican Government which he later disposed of at a profit of $2,000.

While the gold rush in New Mexico lasted the youngster cleaned up $30,000. Then he joined C. A. Canfield and they made a lucky strike in silver. One property alone yielded more than half a million dollars. He followed a wandering outdoors life for many years with varying degrees of success.

Then one day in Los Angeles at the time it had about 100,000 inhabitants, Doheny and Canfield, both almost broke again, pooled their capital of $400 and bought a plot of ground right in the midst of the city, sunk a shaft and struck oil. He persuaded everybody to use the thick, unsalable fluid as a substitute for coal. And wealth rolled in. Within five years 2,300 wells were drilled in that vicinity.

Mexico organized the Mexican Petroleum co., and began the gigantic task of transforming the jungles into a modern beehive of industry. They expended more than $20,000,000 in development work, several millions more in refineries and storage plants in the United States and a fleet of steel tank steamships represents another investment of $20,000,000.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am quite well acquainted with a married man, and see him daily in business. He has been a frequent visitor at our home. His wife is coming home from abroad and they are planning to furnish a home of their own. Would it be proper for me to send them a gift for the home such as a set of dishes, a rug or a picture? I have not met his wife but expect to very soon and if the gift is "O.K." should I wait until I've met her or send it before? And also to whom should is be addressed?

FOR you to give such a gift would, I think, be in very poor taste. The giving of the gift might so easily be misinterpreted that I advise you to wait until you know the hostess of the home before giving such a gift for the new home.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to give a certain high school teacher a birthday gift, but would like to know if it would be proper to do so. If it would—will you please give me a few suggestions?

Thank you. A. PUPIL.

I AM sure that your teacher would be very much touched by your thought of her, and would enjoy having you give her a well-chosen book, a box of flowers, a leather or brass or crystal accessory for her desk. One or two sheer linen handkerchiefs, monogrammed, make a charming and personal gift.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association

YOUR new-born child during the first two weeks may develop one or many blisters at various places on its body.

These blisters may be few in number and get well of themselves in a few days or weeks, each blister leaving a gradually vanishing red spot.

In other cases the blisters go on multiplying until they cover a large part of the body. The little patient develops fever and the trouble is liable to extend to the lungs, when it becomes speedily fatal.

The condition, called pemphigus, is thought to be caused by a special germ, which has not yet been identified.

The infection generally starts where skin surfaces rub and cause breaking of the skin; or around the nails or in an unhealed navel.

The fact that the disease sometimes occurs as endemic in unclean maternity homes and in wives shows that it is contagious.

The mortality in such outbreaks is often as high as 15 and even 40 per cent.

You may readily recognize this affection by the fact that it usually begins as a small pink spot resembling the mark of a flea bite, which may appear on any part of the body. The spot gradually enlarges and the skin over it becomes pale and wrinkled, indicating the commencing formation of a bull. Serum continues to collect until the blister is from half an inch to an inch or more in diameter, when the covering layer almost invariably bursts, exposing a round, red, moist, smooth surface, surrounded by a bright pink border.

In the grave cases the denuded areas remain continually moist and extension of the blisters continues until very large areas become involved. The condition may spread over almost the whole body and face, the skin peeling in large flakes and exposing extensive, vividly red, raw areas. Suckling becomes difficult and is refused, fever and other signs of toxaemia supervene, and death occurs usually within from three to ten days.

But, of course, you will not wait for these serious symptoms to develop, but will act at once—summon your physician.

For Creaky Joints

USE JOINT-EASE

Just rub on the new application called Joint-Ease if you want to know what real joint comfort is.

It's for stiff, swollen, or pain-tortured joints whether caused by rheumatism or not.

A few seconds' rubbing and it soaks right in through skin and flesh right down to ligament and bone.

It oils up and limbers up the joints, subdues the inflammation and reduces the swelling. Joint-Ease is the one great remedy for all joint troubles and live druggists are dispensing it daily—a tube for 60 cents.

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

BOBBY and I were walking through the Metropolitan Museum of Art, looking at all the beautiful treasures which are housed within its walls. Soon we came to the gallery where the magnificent tapestries are hung and we stood gazing at them in wonder.

"I know a story about a lady who worked for twenty years on a tapestry and even then it was not finished," I said slyly.

"Tell me about her, Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby, "there's a bench right over here."

"You remember the hero Ulysses, who fought in so many battles and had such remarkable experience?" I asked the boy.

"Oh, yes," said Bobby proudly," he fought in the Trojan war, didn't he?"

"You're right, Bobby," I replied.

"Ulysses had a very beautiful wife. She was a princess of Greece and her name was Penelope and she loved her husband very much.

"But one day Ulysses came home and told Penelope that he was going away, that war had been declared between Greece and Troy and that he was going with the Grecian army to fight the Trojans.

"Of course, Penelope was very sad at this news but promised to wait for Ulysses.

"But poor Penelope waited longer than she thought she would have to, as it happened. The years passed. Five years. Ten years. Fifteen years and still no news of Ulysses.

"Now Penelope was a very beautiful woman and since everyone thought she was a widow, it was only natural that men would admire her and want to marry her. So she was sought after by many Greeks. Even foreign princes hearing of her beauty, came from far-off lands and asked for her hand in marriage. But she refused them all and still said that she was not a widow, but that her husband was still alive.

"However, the princes bothered and bothered her and finally she thought of a scheme. She was making a tapestry. So what did she do but tell the princes that when she had finished the tapestry she would choose another husband!

"She worked and worked at her tapestry all day, but when night came she pulled out the stitches which she had sewed in the daytime. So she never finished the tapestry, but remained waiting for Ulysses."

"Did he come home, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby. "He did, Bobby," I answered, "after twenty years, Ulysses returned and they lived happily ever after."

FINANCE

—By B. C. FORBES—

America now has more stock holders among her wage earners than among her wealthy citizens.

On January 1 some 10,000 employes of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will come into possession of $47,000,000 worth of the company's stock. The workers have been paying for this stock over a period of five years. These holdings, which will amount to some 400,000 shares, will be larger than the holdings of any other stockholders with the single exception of John D. Rockefeller. [illegible] since the workers began paying for the stock [illegible] paid by the [illegible] paid one dollar.

* * *

How many shares of the Pennsylvania Railroad would you guess are held by its own employes? More than 15,000 shares. [illegible] of the [illegible] have already bought, or are [illegible] of buying stock of the road.

New York Central has 41,000 employe stockholders.

The General Electric Company almost a year ago reported that more than 17,000 of its employes had bought bonds in the G. E. Employes' Securities Corporation and that the average holding then was $156. The bonds carry 6 per cent interest and the company adds an additional 2 per cent. By this time the total doubtless is very much larger.

* * *

President Grace of Bethlehem Steel has just announced that last year approximately 20,000 employes applied for Bethlehem [illegible] stock and that this year no fewer than 22,3[illegible] workers have applied for 47,000 shares.

* * *

A few weeks ago F. Edson White of Armour & Company announced that the company had about 80,000 stockholders and that about [illegible] were employes. Think of it, 40,000 wage-earners owning stock in this one company.

Early in the current year President Louis F. Swift announced: "Swift & Company stock is now owned by over 47,000 shareholders of whom more than one-third are employes."

The employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company own [illegible] over one-fourth of the entire 600,000 shares. The indications are that it will not be so very long before employes own a clear majority of the stock.

* * *

If the wage earners of America were to make up their minds in earnest to gain control of the leading enterprises in this country it wouldn't take them many years to accomplish their purpose.

1926 OUTLOOK CONSIDERED FAVORABLE

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

All prominent authorities who have so far given opinions on the probable trend of business and finance during 1926 are optimistic, especially as regards at least the first six months of the coming year. Belief that business will be good and will probably keep in sound prosperity channels during the holiday season is unanimous.

* * *

One leading financial writer says: "With characteristic energy, Homer Loring, New England's celebrated financial 'doctor,' is attacking the problems of the Boston & Maine Railroad with a liberal measure of success to date. Loring will be remembered as the man who took charge of the financially dilapidated Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway in 1919 and speedily put it on its feet.

* * *

"Loring was made chairman of the executive committee of Boston & Maine [illegible] and clothed with [illegible] authority to do two things, [illegible] the road and restore its [illegible] power. The reorganization [illegible] in character—is [illegible] completed. Only a [illegible] the first race could have [illegible] the conflicting claims [illegible] of the numerous [illegible] Boston & Maine situation.

* * *

"In rehabilitation of earning [illegible] has been accomplished, but Loring's method has been to cut expenses rather than to pin his hopes on increasing gross revenues in what is admittedly static territory. With no market outlet for [illegible] however long established, Loring has gone at the expense account hammer and tongs. Many large economies have been effected and the market for Boston & Maine securities is constantly reflecting the advancing prices, the brighter outlook for the property.

* * *

"Loring has no interest in a job which has degenerated into a purely routine operating proposition. It may be assumed, therefore, that he is not wedded to the Boston & Maine for the rest of his days, but rather that when the rehabilitation process has been completed he will take a rest or look around for new woods to conquer."

* * *

Secretary-Treasurer F. L. Stuart of the Traffic Club of New England tells me the organization will hold its sixteenth annual banquet for election of officers Dec. [illegible]. "Past Presidents' Night" is to be observed. F. W. Hunt is the present president.

* * *

Letter to stockholders of John T. Connor Company from President Charles F. Adams and Treasurer Ralph P. Buckard states that preferred stock in the new First National Stores, Inc., will be issued to an equivalent amount for the John T. Connor Co. preferred. John T. Connor Co. common shareholders will receive an equivalent number of shares of no-par common stock of First National Stores, Inc., plus an amount of First National Stores 7 per cent. first preferred to be determined by audit and appraisal now under way.

Letter outlines the advantages of the proposed merger and points out "the steady rise in the market price of your company's common stock since the rumors of such a consolidation became current shows that the investing public believes that such a consolidation is most desirable and promises substantial benefits to the holders of the common stock of your company. On [illegible] 1, 1925, the common stock of the John T. Connor Co. was selling on the Boston Stock Exchange at [illegible] a share, whereas on Nov. [illegible], 1925, it sold at [illegible] a share."

COMBUSTION CONTINUES TO FOOL THE SHORTS

International Combustion continues to fool the shorts. The stock has been looked upon as a good short sale since it first sold in the thirties because traders figured its earnings did not warrant the price. It was sold short in the forties, then in the fifties and now it is in the sixties. Earnings reported hardly justify $60 a share, but insiders say they are buying not on present, but on future earnings. Next year will probably prove whether the bears have been justified in their attitude toward the stock.

LITTLE OPPOSITION TO B. & M. STOCK PLAN

The petition of the Boston & Maine Railroad for the issuance of $13,000,000 in prior preferred stock and refunding bonds to the amount of $43,522,000, as part of its re-organization plan, approved by the Legislature, met with virtually no opposition at a hearing before the public utilities commission.

Liberty Trust

Liberty Trust Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $3 a share, payable Jan. 2.

BOSTON & MAINE Class B rose 3 points at 77.

General Howze for Boston

His Appointment to Command First Corps Area Would Prove Most Satisfactory Selection

To the highly respected Boston newspaper which he represents with diligence and distinction in "the Federal City," Oliver McKee, Jr., telegraphs the interesting information that the name of Major-General Robert Lee Howze, who wears the Distinguished Medal of Honor, is now under consideration as the successor of Major-General Andre W. Brewster, also a Medal of Honor veteran, who is soon to retire from the Army and as Commander of the First Corps Area.

No better selection than General Howze could be made at this time, as the Boston Evening American believes. He belongs to that progressive group in the Regular Army who hold firmly to the opinion that there is no substitute in the training of a soldier for duty with troops.

He has a long and distinguished record in peace and war to his credit, not only as a commander of Regulars, but in command of Volunteers.

Since his graduation from West Point in 1888 his service with the Colors has taken him all over the United States, to Cuba, to the Philippines, and across the seas in the Great War. He was Chief of Staff of what is now the First Corps Area at the time that the Yankee Division went overseas. He commanded the Third Marne Division in France and Germany. Following his return from the Army of Occupation, in 1919, he was assigned to the command of the First Cavalry Division, with headquarters at El Paso.

His splendid qualifications for military leadership, his unusual knowledge of New England, his wide acquaintanceship throughout the six States which make up this Corps Area, his freedom from any involvement in the self-perpetuating oligarchy latterly in control of the War Department—all these commend him to the New England public as a worthy successor to General Brewster, who, when he retires, will take with him the best wishes of his fellow Americans who live in the First Corps Area.

If Secretary Davis takes cognizance of public sentiment hereabouts he may well select General Howze to be the next Commander of the First Corps Area and Boston and all New England will give him a whole-hearted welcome.

Justice in Middlesex

District Attorney Reading's Good Work

To the District Attorney for Middlesex, Mr. Reading, his fellow citizens throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts are indebted for the excellent example he has set in the administration of justice by his conduct of the case against the thugs who robbed the Waltham carbarn eight weeks ago and murdered the helpless old man who was assigned there as a watchman.

This is not the first time that District Attorney Reading has fully met the expectations of the public. It is only the latest evidence that he has given that he has both the will and the ability to perform the duties of his office as District Attorney in a manner that reflects credit upon himself, as well as upon the people who had the good sense to elect him to his present office, and to support him in his conscientious discharge of its heavy responsibilities.

Mr. Reading is the type of District Attorney that might well make an excellent Attorney-General some day. His own work in the Middlesex District, and that of his able assistant, Mr. Bushnell, are attracting favorable comment far beyond the limits of their present jurisdiction.

Justice in Middlesex today sets a standard for Massachusetts justice.

People Are Serious

Dangerous for a Statesman to Be a Humorist

Gilbert K. Chesterton, England's most brilliant literary critic, raises the question whether bewilderment in the face of life is expressed best by Hamlet or by the enterprising workingman, Bottom, in "Midsummer Night's Dream." The fact is that Bottom is quoted once where Hamlet is quoted a thousand times.

Take all of Shakespeare's greatest comic characters together, headed by Falstaff and including Dogberry, Aguecheek, Sir Toby, Nym, Bardolph, Pistol, Osric, Shallow, Gratiano, and they can never mean much to the general public in comparison with Shylock, Portia, Brutus, Anthony, Othello, Iago, Macbeth, Lady Macbeth, Romeo, Juliet.

Seeing life as fantastic and ridiculous is a special delight to a large percentage of the subtlest minds, but to the average citizen life is a solid fact and he wants his talk about it straight. That is why it is dangerous for a statesman to be a humorist.

China, Helpless Giant

Peace Will Never Come to Her Until Her People Are Treated Like Human Beings

Peace will never come to China until Chinamen are treated as human beings.

The trouble is that most foreigners assume an attitude of superiority, and in their actions show that they consider themselves better than the natives.

No matter what language we speak or what our customs are, all people are the same in their fundamental instincts, and the self-respect and pride of a Chinaman is as great as that of a white man.

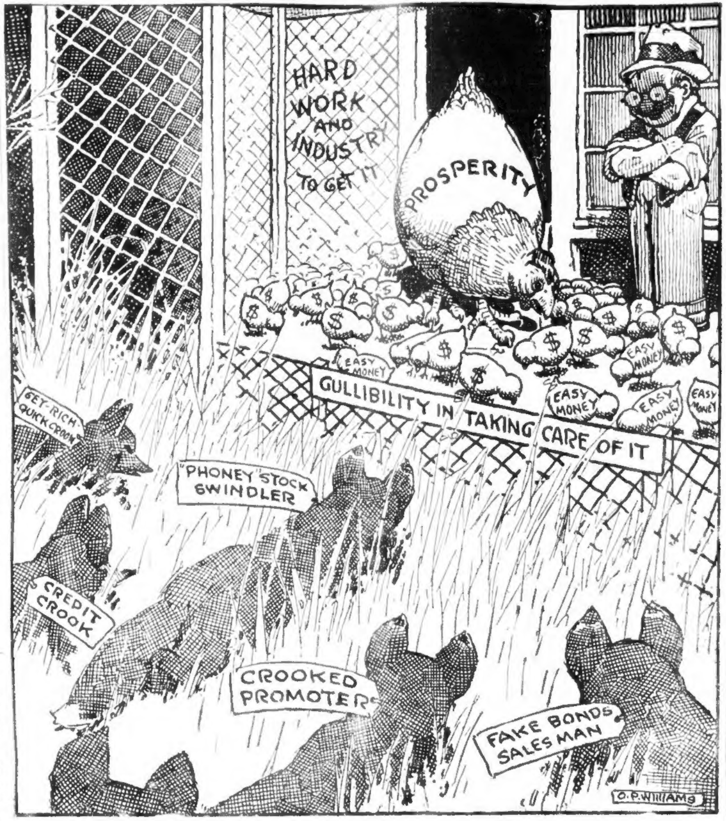
When foreign governments take to treating the Chinese justly, and give them all of their human rights, we shall expect better news from China.

The inferiority complex is constantly working, and it is but natural that the Chinese should resent being treated as inferiors.

It is said that China has not yet established a central government with such authority as we can utilize in doing business. But the same might be said of some countries in Europe. The fact that China is divided into many warring groups should not prevent our doing justice to the Chinese people.

It is a strange circumstance that Russia and the United States, which look at most political questions from opposite poles, are now both working feebly toward the emancipation of China from foreign control, while England, from self-interest in preserving her vast foreign trade there, is conserva[illegible]ing to keep China helpless and dependent.

Beware of the Foxes!



IT'S human nature that you cannot have one without the other. The foxes and the wolves of wild nature become predatory and bold in HARD times. The human foxes and wolves become predatory in GOOD times.

Everything points to an unprecedented era of prosperity in this country. And already the foxes and the wolves are gathering about the henhouses of hard work and industry.

Nor is this any fake cry of "Wolf!" as in the fable. Bankers and credit men estimate that nearly a billion and a half of EARNED dollars went in the last year from the earners to those who prefer slickness to work.

You will earn billions during the coming year. Don't give it up to the get-rich-quick fox or his phoney stock, crooked promotion and fake bond brothers.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

SEVERAL modiste shops now have private wailing rooms. A man can buy his wife a new gown and then go in and cry over the price.

AND while he's sobbing, she's picking out another dress.

ONE fellow used to weep every time his wife asked him for a dollar. She's kept him in tears all his life.

HE hasn't had a dry eye since the day they were married.

HE bawls so much that he has to wear rubber neckties.

HIS cheek bones have stopped so many tears that his face is getting to look like the Roosevelt Dam.

HE got so used to crying that he goes into hysterics every time his wife asks him for a nickel.

HIS wife wanted ten dollars last week and he had convulsions.

DORA'S Simply Thrilled. She has Just Been Psychoanalyzed. The loveliest woman. She only charged her ten dollars. And she told her The Most Marvellous Things about herself.

YOU ARE MISUNDERSTOOD AND YOUR FAVORITE COLOR IS BLUE!
N' THEY PAY REAL MONEY FOR DOPE LIKE THIS!

All about her Inhibitions—

And her Complexes—

And her Unconscious—

And what her Dreams meant—

And how she must Express Herself and Rise Above Her Environment— Why, she never dreamed she was like that. And Everything is going to be different.

Jim's excited, too. He's been attending a series of lectures on How to Make the Most of Yourself, and it's simply amazing the amount of Important Dope he's accumulated on James T. Persons.

You may never have met Dora or Jim, but you've met dozens like them. Their tribute is legion since the Psychoanalysis Bug hit the country. Many are having their mental insides dragged forth and analyzed and tagged, and feel mighty important over the process.

What's the value of psychoanalysis?

And the value of the psychoanalyzer?

There is no value to 999 out of every 1,000 psychoanalyzers, psychologists, hand writing interpreters, character experts, etc. They are fakers, and their "science" is a shell game, nothing more. They are not only valueless—they are a menace.

YOU CAN DO NOTHING MORE DANGEROUS THAN TO GIVE THE IGNORANT, EXCITABLE, DISCONTENTED, MORBID HUMAN BEING A DISTORTED CONCEPTION AND VALUATION OF ITS OWN EGO.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

BEWARE of Horn-Rimmed Spectacles!

Once upon a time I fell for a man in horn-rimmed spectacles.

I thought it was the man—but now I KNOW it was the spectacles!

What IS there about a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles that is so completely disarming, deceiving and reassuring?

* * *

Helen Rowland

If Don Juan had worn a pair you never could have convinced the women he fooled that he hadn't een misunderstood!

* * *

Gold-rimmed spectacles, silver spectacles and rimless spectacles may suggest merely old age or weak eyes—but horn-rimmed spectacles are better than a certificate of character, a blameless life and a university degree—when it comes to impressing a woman.

Three Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

POLYNESIA has long been a land of dreams and longings to most people of Western lands. Poets and artists have combined to fill our imagination with vague dreams of beauty. Lands of coral and tropical foliage, of brilliant birds and beautiful people with lithe supple brown bodies.

The visitors to these islands of the Pacific are usually surprised to find the natives dressed in manufactured cloths. They have adopted the manufactured cotton prints of Western civilization although they wear them in a manner all their own.

The native population has been sadly thinned out of late years. Smallpox and tuberculosis have wiped out whole tribes. Within a year a tribe of four hundred was left with two survivors to commemorate the memory of a once prosperous community.

The most important staple food of the Polynesians is "poipoi," a sticky, yeasty dough-like substance, made from the root of the taro. The roots are pounded into a paste and then baked somewhat. It is finally served, wrapped in the green leaves of the rauti plant.

Breadfruit is another of the staple foods and there has long been a custom among the Polynesians of planting a breadtree on the birth of each child, that there may be food enough for him.

Getting AWAY from
Somewhere, in order
To get SOMEWHERE
ELSE.
HOSTESSES cannot
KEEP their guests
Satisfied for LONG.
HUSBANDS go home
And find their WIVES
OUT.
GIRLS rush off to
BUSINESS in the
MORNING, but
That is NOTHING to
The rush home AT NIGHT
So that they can
RUSH OUT AGAIN to

OUR SUCCESS DEPENDS LARGELY ON SELF

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MR. BRYAN points out in his autobiography that there are three elements of success in the case of every man: heredity, environment and luck.

Man is responsible for none of these three.

If you had been born in the centre of Africa or of China your chances for prosperity would have been much less than they are because you were born in the United States.

Not only must a man have ability, but he must have opportunity, or a place to exercise his gifts.

This opportunity depends upon events over which he has no control.

How much of a man's ability is due to his heredity is a question of dispute.

And just what portion of success depends upon the man himself and his initiative is also a debated question.

It seems that most successful men at the close of their careers look back upon their good fortune as being mixed largely with luck, after the manner of Mr. Bryan.

It is true that, as has been said, if you make the best rat trap in the world, people will beat the track to your door.

A great deal depends upon who discovers that your rattrap is the best, and what use they make of this knowledge.

The thought that our success depends upon forces beyond us and above us must keep us all humble minded. We should all be willing to exclaim with Lincoln, over Knox's famous line: "O why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

At the same time the knowledge that our success depends largely upon ourselves must keep us all on our toes, willing to make the best of every opportunity.

Perhaps the best explanation is that success consists in a combination of two things. One is a man's native gifts, and the other is the opportunity for exercising them.

WHAT ENGINEERS CALL THE LEVEL

By Garrett P. Serviss

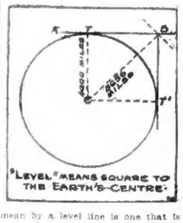
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"The circle represents the earth's circumference. The line A-B is a tangent. A spirit-level at T would show "level." What would it show at B? If a straight line is level at T, why isn't it level its entire length? Would not the correct answer be a novel proof that the earth is round?—E. N. F., M. D."

I HAVE added some details to the diagram to clear up the question. The spirit-level if it could be carried from T to B, would indicate "level" only when it lay in the dotted line that I have drawn through the point B, that line being at a right angle to the direction of the earth's center.

The moment it left T its bubble would begin to be displaced, and it would be necessary to incline the right-hand end "downward" to bring the bubble back to the center.

This shows that what geodesists (earth-measurers), and engineers mean by a level line is one that is everywhere tangent to the earth's circumference. Except for an infinitely short distance it is not straight, but if continued becomes a circle concentric with the circumference.



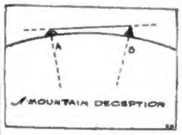
Along Straight Lines

A sight if taken from T, along the straight line which is "level," or tangent to T, would pass 1,656 miles above the earth's surface at the point B. You may be interested in knowing how this can be calculated.

The dotted lines to the earth's centre show the geometrical basis of the calculation. The line from T to B is evidently equal to the line from C to T, which itself is equal to the radius of the earth, 4,000 miles; represented also by the equal line T-C. Then, we have the triangle B-T-C, right-angled at T. By Euclid, its hypothenuse, B-C, is equal to the square root of the sum of the squares of the two other sides.

Calling each of these sides unity, or 1, the sum of their squares is 2, and the square root of 2 is 1.414. This shows that the line B-C is .414 times radius, or 1.414 times 4,000, and you get 5,656 miles for the distance B-C, i. e., B is 1,656 miles above the earth.

As to proving the rotundity of the earth by considering the continual variation in direction of a "level" line, of course the proof is there, just as it is in observation of the depression of the line of sight from an elevated point to the horizon, or in that of the gradual sinking of a distant ship below the horizon as the observer's distance increases.



An interesting use of the principle of levelling may be made by any excursionist in a hilly or mountainous district. I am in the habit of carrying a little pocket spirit level, which easily shows the relative height of surrounding eminences as viewed from any elevation. These simple observations add immensely to the pleasure of travelling. Any healthy mind is as hungry for such facts as a healthy body is for its dinner. Add a pocket aneroid and you double the intellectual pleasure.

Many Errors

The most extraordinary errors are commonly made in judging relative elevations. Your spirit-level itself will mislead you if you do not take into account the effect of the earth's curvature when sighting over long distances in the mountains. Neglecting atmospheric refraction your line of sight will be straight, like the extended tangent T-B.

If the distance is great, as shown in the second cut, this tangent line will deceive you. It may lead you to believe that a distant mountain is of equal height with the one on which you are standing, when in fact it is twice as high. Even the word of a scientific instrument must be subjected to "higher criticism" before it can be accepted.

ONE SHOULD SAVE UP FOR UNEXPECTED BILLS

Things are going pretty hard with you, eh?

You just recover from one setback to meet another squarely.

Each year you have thought it might break better for you and you could buy that certain thing you have longed for.

But each New Year finds the same old condition.

Personal wishes must be sacrificed to pay for necessities.

But you might have saved out enough if you had tried hard.

When sailing was clear, then you should have put some money away.

The storm and stress comes every year, of course, but you must save to protect yourself from these hard times.

Get ahead and be ready. Do not spend ahead and then be taken unawares.

You must have a fund of reserve for the unexpected expenses.

Deny yourself pleasure if need be, but lay aside that fund for out-of-the-ordinary expense.

To find yourself ready when the hard-sledding comes is to have peace of mind, which is worth a lot of sacrifice.
